REVIEWS POLICY IN FOREIGN LINE FOR CONFERENCE

Lord Curzon, Secretary for Foreign Affairs, Gives Detailed Outline to Premiers — Is Somewhat Closely Questioned After His Address—Report Is Not Made Public.

QUESTION OF GIVING DOMINIONS SOME DIRECTING VOICE IN POLICY

LONDON, June 22.—A comprehensive but highly confidential review of the principles which have guided British foreign policies since the end of the war, with a detailed outline of the results of their application, were today given the conference of Prime Ministers by Lord Curzon, Secretary for Foreign Affairs.

Owing to the fact that a number of questions of delicate international significance had to be touched upon, the conference agreed that the address should not be published.

All that can be said, therefore, is that the Foreign Secretary took the conference completely into his confidence, laying all the cards upon the table, and at the same time inviting the delegates to interrogate him respecting every point upon which they might desire more information.

This invitation, it is understood, was freely acted upon, Premier Meighen and the other Premiers subjecting Lord Curzon to what practically amounted to a cross-examination. The Foreign Secretary, it is known, did not touch upon the Japanese alliance except in a general way, and did not advocate that it be denounced or renewed. He dealt at great length, however, with the diplomatic conversations which have taken place with France, with the basis of the British Government's attitude with regard to Russia and the general lines of British policy both in Europe and on the Pacific.

ASK OWNERSHIP BY GOVERNMENT

Delegates to A. F. of L. Convention Repeat Declaration as to Railways—Sinn Fein Sympathizers Defeated

DENVER, Colo., June 22.—Reaffirming its stand for Government ownership, with democratic operation, of the railroads, the convention of the American Federation of Labor today directed its executive council to draw proposals for legislation designed to give the workers, through government regulation, equal rights and privileges with capital in organized enterprises.

The convention sustained the action of the committee in striking out of the resolution the proposal that would have put organized labor on record as declaring for "government control and democratic operation of all industries organized under corporate grants and privileges."

In authorizing the legislation programme the convention overthrew the majority report of the resolutions committee, which only provided aid for the railroad unions in their fight for government ownership of railroads.

Because of objections of the international seamen's union and the teamsters' union delegates to government control of their industry, the convention amended the declaration which called for immediate legislation providing for government ownership and democratic control of transportation so that it would only apply to railroad systems.

One of the main supporters of the report involving the application of the principles of government ownership to all basic industries was President John L. Lewis, of the United Mine Workers, who is a candidate for the presidency of the Federation. Mr. Lewis said the miners still had under consideration the problem of nationalization of the mines and he declared for "government control of those basic industries."

After a stormy debate, the convention disposed of the Irish question by adopting a resolution—trimmed of its most drastic boycott provisions—expressing sympathy for the Irish cause.

Irish sympathizers, supporting a resolution calling for a boycott against British goods, were overwhelmingly defeated in an attempt to have the convention overthrow a ruling made by President Samuel Gompers, which prevented reconsideration of their proposal.

No Definite Voice

So far as could be ascertained tonight, the statement is regarded as satisfactory by the representatives of the Dominions. It is pointed out, however, that a more explanation of foreign policy to the Dominions is far from meaning that they have a voice of influence in the direction or execution of that policy itself. Lord Curzon's address, indeed, is regarded as emphasizing the difficulty of giving practical effect to the claim of the Dominions for a voice in foreign affairs. The Foreign Secretary was not asking advice for direction; he was simply outlining the principles and policies which have been adopted on the volition of the British Government alone, explaining something that had already been done.

Question of Mechanism

How, it is asked, can any mechanism be devised to alter this position? One solution suggested is Dominion ministers resident in London, but few with knowledge of the situation believe that a resident minister would be in a position to exercise much influence over the Foreign Minister, fortified in his actions by experts and others immediately familiar with the intricacies and complexities of old world affairs.

The problem will come up when that part of the agenda is reached calling for the creation of means giving effect to the new status of the Dominions pending a final solution by the constitutional conference, but in view of the doubt which exists as to the best course to pursue, it is unlikely that any definite action will be taken.

The conference does not meet tomorrow. It will resume Friday, but the Japanese alliance, the first big subject to be discussed, is not likely to come up until the beginning of next week.

BRITISH LABOR PARTY REJECTS COMMUNISM

BRIGHTON, Eng., June 22.—The British Labor party, at its conference here today, rejected a proposal introduced by the Radical wing to allow the Communist party to affiliate with the Labor party.

The decision was taken after a long debate. Robert Williams, of the Transport Workers' Federation, supported the proposal for the admission of the Communists, on condition that they accepted their duties and responsibilities.

"If they do not behave themselves well," he said, "kick them out."

The miners' leader, Herbert Smith, said the majority of the Miners' Federation did not believe in Communism. Others of the more conservative members voiced the view that Communism was a menace to labor and democracy. The delegates voting against Communism represented 4,115,000 ballots, and those for Communism 224,000, the majority against being 3,891,000.

TALK ON STATUS OF AIR FORCE

Delegates to Convention Express Preference for Permanent Staff—Many Suggestions for Improvement

CAMP BORDEN, June 22.—The discussions of the Canadian Air Board Association convention, which was in session until 1:30 this morning, were of a constructive nature, and many new suggestions to improve the efficiency of the present system were made. The delegates evinced a keen understanding of flying conditions and administration throughout the Dominion. Their knowledge, no doubt, resulted from a close study of aviation problems during the last two years. Especially an outstanding feature of the convention was the value placed on university training and the desirability of inducing engineering students to become technical officers.

Prairie delegates expressed the willingness of their universities to cooperate with the Canadian Air Force in furthering instruction in aviation.

The policy of the Canadian Air Force was discussed, and a feeling that it should be given some assurance of permanency was evident. The appointment of permanent administrative officers was favored by many instead of the present system, and it is probable that the Air Board will consider seriously some of the points brought up.

Aerial navigation, cadet training and the establishment of an air force college were also considered, while the duplication of the Canadian force and the operation branches brought forth some interesting arguments. The interest of the civilian members of the association was very marked.

PLAGUES SPREAD THROUGH RUSSIA

LONDON, June 22.—A sensational report saying plague is spreading rapidly throughout Southeastern Russia from Persia to Siberia, was presented yesterday at the pan-Russian Health Congress in Moscow by Health Commissioner Samasjko, says a Central News dispatch from Helsingfors.

Cholera is said to be raging in the southern and middle provinces of Russia, and it was said there was hardly a part of Russia free from malaria.

The health commissioner attributed the epidemics to enormous swarms of flies and gnats, which are carrying the diseases.

WOOL PRICE CHANGES ARE ONLY NOMINAL

OTTAWA, June 23.—The Dominion wool market report for the week ending June 21 states that no change in prices has been noted during the past week in Canada, but that trading had been of such small extent that quotations are only nominal.

Small lots of Eastern wool sold at from 18 cents for coarse and 25 cents for medium. The United States reports indicate a more cheerful tone to the market, with a slight advance in prices. The English market is reported much stronger.

SHANIKO, Ore., June 22.—Half a million pounds of wool was sold to foreign and domestic buyers here today at the annual wool sales. The price on fine grades ranged from 15½ cents to 20¾ cents. Coarser grades sold at 13 cents.

Reselling Government Whisky

VANCOUVER, June 22. — Edwin Williams, Vancouver, is held without bail in jail tonight on the charge of selling at 50c per glass whisky purchased from the Government liquor store. This is believed to be the first arrest under the new act.

FORMING PLANS FOR EXPEDITION

Stefansson Organizes Company for Purpose of Exploiting Meat and Fur Resources of Arctic Regions

VANCOUVER, June 22.—Another expedition to the Arctic slope is foreshadowed under the direction of Vilhjalmur Stefansson, Canadian explorer of the northlands of Canada. Incorporation of a company with a capital stock of $100,000 is under way this week in Vancouver. Stefansson, who is just now completing a lecture tour in the United States, is president of the new concern, which is named the Stefansson Arctic Exploration and Development Company.

A suitable vessel has already been obtained, and is now in the North, it is stated today. Stefansson has always been a great believer in the possibilities of marketing vast quantities of reindeer meat, and it is to investigate and develop practical features of this and the fur trade, as well as to thoroughly explore the resources of the islands and country lying to the north of Canada, that the expedition is being sent out.

Vancouver will be the official headquarters of the expedition, which may be continued for the next two or three years.

SELL BOGUS TICKETS FOR COMING FIGHT

NEW YORK, June 22.—Eight men suspected of flooding the country with bogus tickets for the Dempsey-Carpentier fight were arrested tonight and charged with forgery, counterfeiting and grand larceny.

The first five men were arrested after one of them is alleged to have negotiated for the sale of $3,750 worth of tickets to a detective.

A large quantity of bogus tickets, police said, was found in the possession of the men.

MANY RUSSIANS DIE ON VOLGA STEAMER

STOCKHOLM, June 22.—Most of the passengers and crew of the Red Prougher, one of the largest steamers plying the Volga River, in Russia, perished one night last week, following an explosion on board. The steamer was destroyed by fire.

Among the dead were the Archbishop of Nishni-Novgorod and several professors from the University of Kazan.

The Bolsheviki and the Mensheviki are charging each other with responsibility for the explosion.

WOULD GIVE WOMEN HOMESTEAD RIGHTS

EDMONTON, June 22.—A motion urging the Federal Government to permit women to file on homesteads on the same basis as men was presented at this morning's session of the Federated Women's Institute. The sentiment of the meeting appeared to favor such a policy, and it is likely that a resolution to this effect will go forward.

Since the war, it was pointed out, women have shown they are capable of managing farm or business affairs and of doing manual labor, so there was no reason why they should not be granted the privilege of acquiring land if they so desired. When a husband and wife together did the necessary work on a homestead, the wife had a right to part possession of the land.

MEMORIALS FOR EMPIRE HEROES

Bronze Plaques to Be Distributed Among Next of Kin Are Now Arriving at Ottawa —Letter From King

SIXTY THOUSAND INTENDED FOR CANADA

Inscription on Plaque Records That Soldier Whose Name It Bears "Died for Freedom and Honor"

OTTAWA, June 22.—The bronze plaque which is being sent by the Imperial Government to the next of kin of all Empire soldiers who died in the great war has reached Ottawa, some 30,000 of these having been received by the Department of Records, Ottawa.

These will be distributed as soon as the new medal room, now in course of construction, is completed. There will be in the neighborhood of 60,000 of these distributed in Canada. With them goes a letter from His Majesty, as follows:

"I join with my grateful people in sending you this memorial of a brave life given for others in the Great War."

The letter is dated Buckingham Palace, and with it is a scroll reading:

"He whom this scroll commemorates, was numbered among those who, at the call of King and Country, left all that was dear to them, endured hardships, faced danger, and finally passed out of sight of men by the path of duty and self-sacrifice, giving up their own lives that others might live in freedom. Let those who come after see to it that his name be not forgotten."

The plaque is in bronze and is about six inches in diameter. It contains the inscription:

"He died for freedom and honor," and the name, number and rank of the dead soldier.

BOLSHEVIKI BRUTALLY ILLTREAT PRISONERS

RIGA, June 22.—After having spent 40 days on starvation diet in the Tcheka prison at Moscow, most of the time underground, Capt. Emmett Kilpatrick, member of the American Red Cross, who was captured by the Bolsheviki last November, has been removed to a prison hospital. Early in June he was in a serious condition.

American and Hungarian prisoners, according to reports, are the worst treated of all the persons under detention in Moscow.

MR. HANNA TALKS OF WHEAT CROP

Believes This Year's Product of Prairies Will Come Near to That of 1915—Should Be About 300,000,000 Bushels

TORONTO, June 22.—"What we need in Canada at the present time is a little more real optimism and faith in our God-given natural resources," declared President D. B. Hanna, of the Canadian National Railways.

"I have seen crops mature for 35 seasons, and in all my experience with conditions in the Western provinces, I never saw conditions look more favorable at this time of year.

"I look for a crop like the bumper crop of 1915, which had a record-breaking yield of 350,000,000 bushels of wheat in the Western provinces," said the Canadian National Railway president.

"Present conditions would certainly point to a yield of 300,000,000 bushels of wheat at least."

SELLING STANDARD MINE AT SILVERTON

SPOKANE, June 22.—Stockholders of the Standard Silver-Lead Mining Company today ratified the action of the board of directors, taken a month ago, in negotiations for the sale of the mine at Silverton, B.C., it was announced here last night by company officials.

The consideration was said to be $75,000. The purchasers represent New York interests, it was stated.

During the period of active operations the mine paid approximately $2,700,000 in dividends.

Ending Engineers' Strike

SAN FRANCISCO, June 22.—Telephonic orders were received tonight from Ernest Pegg, business agent of the San Francisco Marine Engineers' Union, who is at Seattle, to terminate the strike against Government-owned vessels, in accordance with the working agreement reached between the engineers and the United States Shipping Board at Washington.

Steel Company Dividend

MONTREAL, June 22.—The board of directors of the Steel Company of Canada met here this afternoon and declared the regular quarterly dividend on the common stock of 1¾ per cent, payable August 1, to shareholders of record July 15. The preferred dividend of 1 per cent for the quarter is also payable August 15.

KING GEORGE ASKS PARTIES OF IRELAND TO BURY HOSTILITY

In Opening Speech to Northern Parliament Offers Eloquent Plea for All to Unite in Work for Interest of Country—Expresses Hope That New Era Will Dawn

HAS CONFIDENCE IN PARLIAMENT

Fair Treatment for All Creeds and Sections of Community Fairly Assured—Lloyd George's Message to Ulster Premier—Surroundings of Event Memorable for Ireland

BELFAST, June 22.—The opening of the Northern Parliament today by the King, who was accompanied by Queen Mary, was carried out with all the pageantry and ceremony with which formal actions of British sovereigns are surrounded. The King himself wore the uniform of an admiral, with the blue sash of the Order of the Garter across his breast, while the Queen, who looked extremely pale and nervous, was in white satin without any insignia of her rank. But a string of pearls was about her neck, and large clusters of diamonds and emeralds shone from her collar and brooch.

There were trumpeters in uniforms of gold, who blew fanfares as the royal couple arrived, and various officers of state in naval, military and mediaeval uniforms. The members of the parliament were in sombre morning dress, even the peers leaving aside their robes for the occasion.

The women, who were in a majority in the senate chamber, where the ceremony occurred, seemed to take an even keener interest in the proceedings than the men. A modern note was struck by the King's speech, which he read in a strong, clear voice, emphasizing the points which he wished to impress on the audience.

His plea for peace and conciliation between the two branches of the Irish race fell on welcome ears, for in no part of Ireland is peace more desired than in Ulster, where business has suffered greatly by the strife throughout the country and by the Sinn Fein boycott of Ulster goods.

Text of Speech

The text of the King's speech to the Parliament follows:

"For all who love Ireland, as I do with all my heart, this is a profoundly moving occasion in Irish history.

"I could not have allowed myself to give Ireland by deputy alone my earnest prayers and good wishes in the new era which opens with this ceremony and I, therefore, come in person as head of the Empire, to inaugurate the Parliament on Irish soil.

"I inaugurate it with the deepest hope, and I feel assured you will do your utmost to make it an instrument of happiness and good government for all parts of the community which you represent. This is a great and critical occasion in the history of the six counties, but not for the six counties alone, for everything which interests them touches Ireland, and everything that touches Ireland finds an echo in the remotest part of the Empire.

"Few things are more earnestly desired throughout the English-speaking world than a satisfactory solution of the age-long Irish problems, which for generations embarrassed our forefathers as they now weigh heavily on us.

"Most certainly there is no wish nearer my own heart than that every man of Irish birth, whatever his creed, and wherever may be his home, should work in loyal co-operation with the free communities on which the British Empire is based.

Confidence in Parliament

"I am confident that important matters entrusted to the guidance of the national parliament will be managed with wisdom and with moderation, with fairness and due regard to every faith and interest, and with no abatement of that patriotic devotion to the Empire which you proved so gallantly in the great war. The boon of full partnership in the United Kingdom and religious freedom, Ireland has enjoyed. She has now had conferred upon her the duty of dealing with all the essential tasks of domestic legislation and government, and I feel no misgiving as to the spirit in which you who stand here today will carry out the all-important functions entrusted to your care.

"My hope is broader still. The eyes of the whole Empire are on Ireland today, that Empire in which so many nations and races have come together, in spite of ancient feuds, and in which new nations have come to birth in the lifetime of the youngest in this hall. I am emboldened by the thought to look beyond the sorrow and anxiety which have clouded of late my vision of Irish affairs. I speak from a full heart when I pray that my coming to Ireland today may prove to be the first step toward an end of strife amongst her people, whatever their race or creed.

Plea for Conciliation

"In that hope I appeal to all Irishmen to pause, to stretch out the hand of forbearance and conciliation, to forgive and forget, and to join in making for the land which they love a new era of peace, contentment and goodwill. It is my earnest desire that in Southern Ireland, too, there may be, ere long, taking place a parallel to what is now passing on this hill; that there may be a similar occasion present itself and a similar ceremony be performed.

"For this, the Parliament of the United Kingdom has in fullest measure provided the powers; for this, the Parliament of Ulster is pointing the

LE TEMPS ADVOCATES PACIFIC CONFERENCE

PARIS, June 22.—The semi-official Temps, commenting on the imperial conference and the question of the Anglo-Japanese alliance, says:

"We are merely spectators in this affair, and it is not for us to suggest to our British friends the manner in which they should direct their empire. Let us simply say, however, that France, whose flag floats in Indo-China, New Caledonia and Tahiti, would willingly join in a conference on Pacific affairs.

"To negotiate a general agreement between all the countries having interests on the shores of the great ocean and substitute such a general agreement for a single alliance between the two countries would be raising against the dangers of war a much stronger wall than heretofore."

PREPARES TO INSTALL INTERNATIONAL COURT

GENEVA, June 22.—The League of Nations council is proceeding with arrangements for the installation of the permanent international court of justice, in full confidence that sufficient ratifications will be received to put the plan into effect before the assembly meets in September.

Twenty-four ratifications are required to put the statutes into effect, and these are assured, according to the council's information, the Hedjaz making the twenty-fourth country whose ratification is certain. Bolivia is the latest country to sign the court's protocol, bringing the total to 39.

VANCOUVER HAS FEWER DRUNKS

Reduction in Number Under New Liquor Law Surprises Police—Discouragement of Bootlegger Is Evident

VANCOUVER, June 22.—The effect of the Moderation Act upon the blotter at Vancouver police headquarters has astonished the officers. Between the morning of June 15 and noon today, covering a week's operation, only eleven arrests were made for drunkenness—or approximately a fourth of the number heretofore recorded for a similar period. Five were convicted and fined $50 or thirty days in jail, two forfeited their bail, charges were withdrawn in two cases, and the tenth is pending. The eleventh was an Indian, fined the usual $6 and costs.

While it has appeared the section of the police designated heretofore as the "dry squad," has been inactive, such is not the case, for evidence has been secured in several instances which will develop as soon as the workings of the act permit clear lines for prosecutions.

The police are of the opinion that the bootlegger will ultimately become a "rara bird," owing to the regulation compelling persons arrested for intoxication to divulge the source of the liquor. Several known illicit traffickers in liquor have already "quit the business," it is said, and embarked upon more legitimate enterprises.

MASONS MEET AT BANQUET BOARD

Brotherhood Was Keynote of Speeches at Grand Reception Tendered by Local Brethren to Delegates

Members of the local Masonic Order tendered a right royal welcome to delegates to the fiftieth anniversary celebration of the inauguration of the Grand Lodge of British Columbia when, last evening, a banquet attended by one of the largest numbers to ever grace a similar event in the city, gathered in the old drill hall, Menzies Street, and partook of the hospitality of the Victoria members of the craft.

Over 900 members of the order were present and with the presence of visiting brethren from the State of Washington, the affair partook of an international character, the keynote of which was struck when these latter emphasized the true bond of brotherhood which existed between the two great branches of the race, and expressed their belief that in a union of the two countries would be preserved the peace of the world.

The drill hall had been transformed into a thing of beauty. A multitude of flags, among which the Stars and Stripes floated in honor to the visitors from across the border, together with festoons of electric lights, proved a most effective decorative scheme. Along the south side of the large hall, on a raised platform banked with a profusion of flowers and bunting, sat twenty Past Grand Masters of the Provincial Grand Lodge, with Right Worshipful Brother Wallace S. Terry, D.G.M., in the seat of honor and officiating as chairman.

HAS NO REPORT ABOUT ALLIANCE

State Department Denies Story of Its Information on Anglo-Japanese Negotiations for Treaty Renewal

WASHINGTON, June 22.—The State Department issued a statement today denying that it had been cognizant of the progress of the negotiations looking to a renewal of the Anglo-Japanese treaty. The statement follows:

"In view of a dispatch with respect to the renewal of the Anglo-Japanese alliance published this morning to the effect that 'it is understood that the State Department has been kept fully informed of the plans of the British Government, and that it has been given assurance that in the renewal of the treaty every precaution will be taken to guard against the inclusion of anything inimical to American rights,' it is deemed proper to say that the State Department is not informed with respect to the plans of the British Government and has received no assurances in the matter.

"This statement is made to avoid the receiving by the American public of a false impression that the department has been kept cognizant of the progress of the negotiations."

PREFER AMBASSADORS TO LEAGUE COUNCIL

GENEVA, June 22.—The first case in which the competency of the League of Nations in an international difference has been questioned, has arisen in connection with Albania's demand that Greece and Jugo-Slavia evacuate Albanian territory.

The Albanian delegation here has filed a new memorandum with the league, in which, the Albanians reiterate their grievances against Greece and Jugo-Slavia and ask for a public hearing on them.

Efforts are being made by the Greek and Jugo-Slav representatives to take the case out of the hands of the league and have it settled by the council of ambassadors on the ground that the ambassadors already have occupied themselves with these questions and are better able than the council of the League of Nations to deal with them.

IRISH MAGISTRATES KIDNAPPED BY THUGS

DUBLIN, June 22.—Three magistrates were kidnapped last night and today. They were C. King, of Bandon, who was taken away Tuesday night, and J. S. Gilman and James Fitzpatrick, both of Clonakilty, who were seized this morning.

Jos. O'Meara was shot dead today. It is alleged that he was trying to disarm a policeman at the time.

Daniel O'Callaghan was taken from his home at Carrigtohill, County Cork, and shot. He died later in a hospital.

MANITOBA GRAIN CROP GIVES GOOD PROMISE

WINNIPEG, June 22.—Manitoba's 1921 grain crop is forging ahead with every promise of an unusually bountiful harvest, according to an official report issued from the office of Hon. G. H. Malcolm, Provincial Minister of Agriculture, today.

The report tells of ideal weather conditions and states that damage so far practically has been negligible. Grasshopper menace is being offset by rapid plant growth, the report states, and there are no untoward conditions of a serious character.

CABINET AT OTTAWA BUSY WITH AFFAIRS

OTTAWA, June 22.—Although the Prime Minister, the Acting Prime Minister and three of the active members of the Cabinet are out of town, there does not seem to be any slackening of work in the Cabinet. Apparently there is an effort to clean up routine work so as to leave ministers free to holiday later on, and daily sittings of the Cabinet are in order.

Hon. J. A. Calder, Minister of Immigration and Colonization, and President of the Privy Council, has taken upon his shoulders the administration of the Departments of Agriculture, of Marine and the Naval Service in the absence of Hon. Dr. S. F. Tolmie and Hon. C. C. Ballantyne. Hon. G. D. Robertson, Minister of Labor, who returned yesterday from Medicine Hat, is administering the Department of Militia and Defence in the absence of Hon. Mr. Guthrie. The Department of External Affairs, which is the special province of the Premier, is being handled by Sir George Foster, who, at the moment, is out of town.

The charge of alleged contravention of the Government liquor act will be brought in, it is stated, and service will be made on H. A. Bryant, local president, who, it is reported, is at present in Lethbridge on business for the association.

Summonses have been issued for a large number of witnesses who will be called when the case comes up for trial. No definite date for the trial has yet been set.

DISCUSS FATE OF GOVERNMENT

Activities of "Anti-Waste" Element and Marquis of Salisbury's Letter Renew Debate on Coalition's Future

LONDON, June 22.—The future of the Coalition Government of Premier Lloyd George is still being treated as a mild crisis, and several political events are being used by the press to keep it alive. The principal of these is not Lord Salisbury's letter advising Unionist members of Parliament to hold themselves free from any binding obligations to the Government, but the action of the anti-waste group, who have registered an opinion that the Government's reply to their memorial demanding economy is wholly unsatisfactory. More will be heard of this tomorrow when the house discusses the salary of Dr. Addison of £5,000 per annum as a minister without portfolio. His appointment, The Times says, is a scandal, and not merely a constitutional curiosity.

The Express says that the Premier will yet be forced to announce Dr. Addison's removal from office at the end of this session.

The Daily News perceives a growing atmosphere of Liberal conciliation.

Lord Salisbury's Letter

Press comment on the Marquis of Salisbury's letter advising Unionists to consider themselves free from any binding obligations to support the Coalition Government, discloses considerable divergence of opinion regarding the advice as a matter of policy. But the letter has certainly attracted much attention. Mostly, the disposition is to deprecate attaching undue importance to it, and another to treat it as symptomatic of the dissatisfaction existing within the ranks of the Unionist party, and the anti-waste members, which now number 150.

The Daily Chronicle, a leading Lloyd George organ, declares that the great body of Unionists in the House are loyal to coalition and probably will remain so to the end of the chapter, which The Chronicle thinks may not be reached at the next general elections.

The Morning Post regards Lord Salisbury's letter as another stage in the process of emancipation of the Unionist party.

Lukewarm Coalitionist

On the other hand, The Daily Telegraph, while allowing that any pronouncement of Lord Salisbury commands respect, says Unionists will do well to disregard absolutely the advice he tenders. This paper reminds its readers that Lord Salisbury, like his brothers, Lords Hugh and Robert Cecil, who have gone into the Opposition, has never been a zealous Coalitionist.

The Times heartily supports Lord Salisbury and roundly denounces the coalition for having, in place of conserving the national resources, embarked on a social programme which would have been ambitious before the awful destruction of the war.

The Manchester Guardian declares that "a coalition of political parties opposed to each other on essential points of principal is, except in order to meet some great national emergency, at once immoral and ineffective, implying perpetual surrender of convictions on both sides to the bargain." That is what has happened to the present coalition, and Lord Salisbury, for one, is tired of it, The Guardian adds.

Sir Gilbert Wills, Coalition-Unionist member for the Weston division of Somerset, will retire at the end of the present Parliament, he states, on account of his objections to the present grouping of the political parties.

FEW EUROPEANS COME TO CANADA

Great Majority of Those Arriving Are From British Isles and Destined for Farm or Domestic Service

OTTAWA, June 22.—The tightening of regulations governing immigration to Canada is having its effect on the influx of new citizens, according to officials of the Department of Immigration and Colonization. Steamships coming into Quebec at the present time are stated to be bringing only small numbers of immigrants, and these are practically all farmers or domestic workers.

Fewer rejections on account of physical unfitness are taking place on this side of the Atlantic this year, it was stated, and this is due in part to the enforcement of the new regulations, which is bringing about a closer inspection of would-be immigrants before their departure from the other side.

Practically all the immigrants are coming to Canada from the British Isles. It had been anticipated that the blocking of Italian immigrants at United States ports recently would have resulted in some of these travelers seeking to gain admission to Canada, but since the United States Congress has passed emergency regulations allowing the landing of those who had sailed before the passing of the restrictive measures, the pressure had been relieved, and those who were held on vessels in American harbors have been allowed to land. There is therefore, little likelihood of these immigrants seeking to reach Canada, it is stated, unless they first land in the United States and afterwards make their way across at some border point.

U.S. WILL WELCOME CANADIAN MINISTER

NEW YORK, June 22.—The United States will be pleased to see a Canadian minister at Washington, says The Tribune today, comenting on Mr. Lloyd George's reported statement before the Imperial Conference.

"The new Canadian minister, apparently, will be a member from the diplomatic corps on the same footing as the ministers from other American or European States," The Tribune says, and concludes:

"Whatever the nature of the change in Canada's external relations, the United States would be pleased to see a Canadian minister in Washington and a United States minister in Ottawa. We have the same broad interests and the same world point of view as our northern neighbors. It is to the interest of both nations that they should be brought into still closer economic and political co-operation."

PREMIERS DIFFER OVER QUESTIONS

Messrs. Meighen and Smuts Range Against Men From Australia and New Zealand —Publicity for Proceedings

LONDON, June 22.—That the conference of Prime Ministers is not going to arrive at any conclusions without passing through sharp controversies is evident from verbatim reports of the proceedings of yesterday's sessions. Thus, while General Smuts, Premier of South Africa, made a characteristic plea for disarmament, and strongly advocated a conference with the United States and Japan respecting the problem of the Pacific, the Right Hon. W. M. Hughes, Australian Premier, who followed General Smuts, leaned heavily toward the renewal of the Anglo-Japanese alliance, advocated naval expenditure upon a per capital basis, and concluded by deprecating the need for a constitutional conference.

Right Hon. W. F. Massey, Prime Minister of New Zealand, who is the marathon orator of the conference, made a lengthy speech, and although he avoided specific declarations, made it clear that on the most important questions he was on the same side as the Australian Premier.

Mr. Meighen's Position

The Canadian Premier, Right Hon. Arthur Meighen, is still to be heard on these subjects, and, while he has admirably kept his own counsel, so far as the press is concerned, it is a practical certainty that he will be an ally of General Smuts, particularly on the question of the Japanese alliance. What the position of Premier Lloyd George will be remains to be seen, but the weight of opinion here indicates that he will fall in with the idea of disarmament and conference on the Pacific question.

The only thing yesterday's sitting made clear was that a constitutional conference would not be held next year.

Premier Massey urged strongly against it, on the ground that he was faced next Summer with general elections. Premier Hughes, as already noted, is strongly against a conference being held at all, while Premier Meighen, who is also confronted with an election next year, will urge delay.

When the conference is held, Ottawa is not unlikely to be chosen for the gathering. General Smuts, who told the Hon. N. W. Rowell in South Africa last Fall that he strongly favored Canada, will, it is understood, advocate Ottawa on the ground that it is more easily accessible for delegates than that of any other overseas capital, and also that the holding of the conference outside of Great Britain will in itself demonstrate to the world the striking character of the British Commonwealth.

In an interview with The Times, Lord Milner favored the conference being held in Ottawa, and it is improbable that the British Government will object.

Proceedings Public

The idea that the present gathering partakes of the nature of a Cabinet Council was shattered by the decision to make the proceedings public. Credit for this step is largely due to Premier Meighen, who at the opening meeting on Monday made a strong plea for publicity. He said: "If the conclusions be sound and are to be acted upon, they must be accorded not only general support, but intelligent support throughout the countries we represent. Therefore, it is essential that we fully inform the public of our proceedings. The problem is not a simple one, but I venture to suggest that it is better in the long run to err on the side of publicity rather than on the side of secrecy."

OFFER MEDIATION TO GREEKS AND TURKS

PARIS, June 22.—French, British and Italian ministers of Greece, sent a joint communication to the Government at Athens yesterday extending an offer of mediation on the part of the Allies between the Turks and the Greeks. The proposal will be examined by the Greek Government on the return soon to Athens of Premier Gounaris, who is at present in Smyrna.

If the Turkish Nationalists enter the neutral zone defined by the Sevres Treaty, the Echo de Paris declares, they will be opposed by Allied soldiers, as a result of the conference last week between Lord Curzon, British Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, and Premier Briand.

BROCKVILLE GIRLS BURNED TO DEATH

BROCKVILLE, Ont., June 22.—Dorothy, aged 14, and Phyllis Marion, aged 4, daughters of James F. Elliott, were burned to death in a fire which this morning destroyed their home here.

Mrs. Elliott went downstairs to prepare breakfast by means of a coal oil stove. She lit the stove, but it blew out. Without turning off the flow the woman returned upstairs, and on going back to the lower floor found the kitchen in flames. The father, who saved the other children, was severely burned about the face and arms, but will recover.

GRAIN INQUIRY CASE IS OPENED

Counsel Argue Before Court at Winnipeg on Question of Injunctions—Government Has Fundamental Objection

WINNIPEG, June 22.—The Federal Government feels that the courts should not be called upon to interfere with orders-in-council appointing royal commissions, so it was stated today by O. M. Biggar, K.C., of Ottawa, counsel for the Department of Justice, in defending before Mr. Justice Curran the legality of the appointment of the royal grain inquiry commission. If a royal commission exceeded its functions, for instance, in ordering witnesses to be imprisoned, that might be a subject for injunction, he said, but the courts should not be used to make statutory alterations in the commissions as issued.

Mr. Justice Curran began the hearing as one case of the two interim injunctions granted the United Grain Growers, Ltd., and forty other grain firms, restraining the grain commission from continuing. The commission was attacked in the arguments on the ground that it was operating on an invalid order-in-council, and that, even if the appointment were legal, the commissioners had conducted themselves illegally, and apparently in this connection the Fort William session came in for discussion.

Mr. Justice Curran suggested that from his point of view all that had to be established was whether the order-in-council was valid, and possibly whether the Canada Grain Act was or was not ultra vires of the Federal Parliament.

J. P. Foley, K.C., counsel for the commissioners, put in a statement on their behalf claiming in general terms that they had never exceeded their legal functions, and that when their sessions were resumed they did not propose so to do.

H. J. Symington, K.C., counsel for the United Grain Growers, asked if this was an offer of compromise.

The hearing was not concluded.

INTIMIDATION AFFECTS MINES

Some Men Willing to Return to Work Are Kept Back by Demonstrations—Secretary Hodges Sees Defeat

LONDON, June 22.—The National Alliance of Employers and Employees of Great Britain has asked the Government to summon at once an industrial conference representative of all the masters and men now engaged in wage disputes, with instructions to try to save the industrial situation from chaos. At the same time it is understood that the Labor party and Trade Union Congress are considering calling a conference in London next week to deal with the proposal of a general strike in support of the miners.

Reports from the districts today show that no large number of miners have resumed work, but that is said to be due to intimidation rather than unwillingness.

In Derbyshire some pits are working despite interference of strikers, and in Nottinghamshire also, a few pits have reopened. It is estimated that in Derbyshire ten thousand men have been doing a good business by working outcroppings of coal, and against these violent demonstrations have been made by strikers.

The address of Frank Hodges, secretary of the miners' federation, before the Labor party conference at Brighton yesterday did not offer the miners much consolation. While he claimed that the plan of a general strike would work out all right, he did not test the feeling of the conference, and his speech throughout rather suggested the conviction that surrender was imminent through exhaustion. He admitted that other unions had already contributed £100,000 to the miners' strike funds, and that the strikers and their families were nearing the limit of their endurance. In view of these admissions his threat that the miners would bring down the Government, which they blamed for their disasters, is generally regarded as a weak conclusion.

LONDON WELCOMES ROTARY DELEGATES

LONDON, June 22.—Canadian and United States delegates who were present at the sessions of the international conference of Rotarian Clubs held in Edinburgh last week, were officially received by the Lord Mayor of London and corporation officials at the Guildhall here this morning.

The Lord Mayor warmly welcomed the visitors and reply was made by Ralph Cummings, of Lancaster, Pa., first international vice-president.

A. J. Balfour, Lord President of the Council, and former Secretary for Foreign Affairs, addressed the Rotarians at a dinner given here tonight.

U.S. ARMY AVIATORS KILLED BY COLLISION

WASHINGTON, June 22.—Captain Howard Douglas and Lieut. Marl J. Plumb, both of the Army Air Service, were drowned in Hampton Roads today following a collision between their machines.

Lieut. Plumb was dropping bombs in practice flight in connection with the army and navy tests now in progress, and after releasing a bomb his plane ascended into the air. It collided with that of Capt. Douglas, which was flying above it, and both machines crashed to the water.

SPEAK AGAINST CATTLE EMBARGO

Majority of Recent Witnesses Before Commission Favor Its Removal—Scottish Interests Are Particularly Strong

LONDON, June 22.—All the latest witnesses before the cattle embargo commission have advocated the lifting of the embargo, in the belief that the price of meat would be thereby reduced. They have represented meat trade associations principally, but members of borough councils have also supported it.

Another Scottish witness today opposed the official view as to the length of quarantine for Canadian cattle. In his view, a few days' detention at the port of landing would be sufficient.

So far the weight of evidence appears distinctly in favor of the removal. Most of the opposition to this has come from Ireland, and with that, William Henderson, who farms 600 acres in Scotland, dealt very scathingly. What was wanted, he said, by those demanding the removal of the embargo was that Canada should be placed in the same position as Ireland in regard to the British market, which ought to have another source of supply in addition to Ireland.

Continuing, Mr. Henderson said: "Whatever other reasons have been given by anti-removal witnesses, the real ground of their opposition was competition. It is only necessary to look at Ireland's attitude during the war in regard to grain to appreciate the Irish desire to come to our assistance now about cattle. Some people in Ireland were favorable to the removal of the embargo, but dared not appear before the commission."

HOPES TO BRING PEACE TO ERIN

King George's Wish Expressed in His Speech at Formal Opening of Northern Parliament—Urges Harmony

BELFAST, June 22.—"I speak from a full heart," said King George in his speech formally opening the Ulster Parliament here today, "when I pray that my coming to Ireland today may prove to be the first step toward an end of strife amongst her people, whatever their race or creed.

"In that hope I appeal to all Irishmen to pause, to stretch out the hand of forbearance and conciliation, to forgive and to forget, and to join in making for the land which they love a new era of peace, contentment and goodwill.

"It is my earnest desire that in Southern Ireland, too, there may, ere long, take place a parallel to what is now passing in this hall; that there a similar occasion may present itself and a similar ceremony be performed."

In acknowledgment of some forty loyal addresses of welcome, King George, speaking in behalf of himself and Queen Mary, said:

"Standing before this vast assemblage, I reiterate the appeal I have already made to the members of your new parliament. I pray with earnest confidence and hope that in the era now opening there will be readiness on all sides to work in harmony for the common good.

"I shall watch with the closest interest the progress of Northern Ireland under its new institutions, and shall look to you to prove your worthiness. The future is yours to shape, and on you depends in no small degree the peace and well-being of Ireland and Britain alike.

"I thank you again from my heart. God bless you and grant you all possible happiness and prosperity!"

The programme mapped out for the function was followed strictly, without a hitch.

The King read his speech to the Parliament in an impressive manner and with a clear voice, making every word distinct.

On Coronation Anniversary

Their Majesties King George and Queen Mary, journeying from England for the occasion of the tenth anniversary of their coronation, presided at the stats opening of the Ulster Parliament today. It was the first time in nearly twenty years that Ulster had had an opportunity of receiving the sovereigns of the British Empire, and its welcome helped make the occasion a memorable one.

The ceremony of the opening was similar to that attending the inauguration of the British Parliament in Westminster and was a brilliant spectacle. There was but little room in the city hall, where the function took place, for those having cards of admission, but it was a distinguished assemblage that watched an event regarded as making an important epoch in Irish history. Sinn Fein and Nationalist members of the Parliament did not participate.

Enthusiastic Welcome

The visit of the King and Queen was looked upon as a fitting observance of their coronation anniversary. The King had not been in Belfast since he came here in 1902 as Duke of York, and he and his consort were given a right royal welcome today. From the moment their yacht Victoria and Albert dropped her escort at the entrance to Belfast Lough to make her way up the channel to the dock, the King and Queen were the objects of enthusiastic demonstrations by the loyalists of Ulster. The people of County Down, on the south side of the Lough, and County Antrim, on the northern shore, vied with each other in extending greetings. An even noisier welcome was tendered Their Majesties as their yacht steamed past the shipyards, where the cheers of thousands of workers mingled with the shrieks of whistles and sirens. King George and his consort stood on the bridge of the steamer and acknowledged the greeting.

As soon as the King and Queen set foot on the dock, the royal salute loomed out, announcing that they were on Irish soil, and the crowds that lined the long street leading to the city hall strained at the barrier walls of soldiery and police to catch a glimpse of the approaching procession. The wait was short. With the exception of the formal reception by Viscount Fitzalan, Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, and Lord Pirrie, who appeared in behalf of the city, there were no ceremonies at the dock. A squadron of police headed the procession, and the carriages of the royal party were followed by those of officers and dignitaries. The escort of honor was chosen from the 10th Hussars.

Many Soldiers

On each side of the street was stationed a force of nearly six thousand regular troops, standing shoulder to shoulder and separated from the crowds by a heavy railing. In other parts of the city police kept guard against untoward incidents.

Arriving at the city hall, the King and Queen were met by the Lord Mayor and members of the Belfast Council, and the sovereigns proceeded at once to the council room, where the ceremonies immediately began.

When they were completed, the King and Queen were entertained at luncheon by Sir James Craig, the Premier of Ulster, after which they were driven once more through the streets to Ulster Hall, where they received addresses of loyalty from various organizations.

King George and Queen Mary departed from Belfast for London in perfect safety at 4 o'clock this afternoon.

The police in the Upper Falls district of the city, hearing firing in that area today, pursued eight men suspected and captured three of them, who were found to have ammunition in their possession.

Soldiers with machine guns were occupying vantage points in the Falls district.

To Zinovieff has been assigned the report on the activities of the executive committee; to Trotzky the international situation and problems of the communist internationale; to Radek, problems of tactics.

ADMIRAL SIMS LANDS QUIETLY

No Demonstration of Any Kind Attends Arrival at New York—Great Force of Police Present at Dock

NEW YORK, June 22.—Rear Admiral Sims arrived home today to explain to Secretary Denby remarks attributed to him in his recent London speech on Irish-Americans. Refusing to be taken ashore by a cutter, he came up the bay aboard the liner Olympic to meet friends or foes who might be awaiting him near the pier.

Everything was peaceful when the veteran sea dog landed. A thousand bluecoats were massed on the dock to preserve order. Indeed, they were so numerous that, with wharf workers and passengers, it would have been difficult for many persons to have found foothold on the pier.

Police lines were drawn several blocks north and south of the pier entrance. Not even when Woodrow Wilson returned from the peace conference were more thorough preparations made.

The Admiral was the first person to step ashore. He entered an automobile with Rear Admiral Huse, commandant of the third naval district, who was there to greet him. Flanked by police, he rode away, announcing that he would take the first train for Washington.

From the handful of persons on the pier there came neither cheers nor taunts. Among those who met the Admiral was his brother.

MONTREAL WOMAN GAINS EXPERIENCE

MONTREAL, June 22.—Truant husbands may be made to love their wives in the opinion of J. L. Fortier, hypnotic exponent, who was charged yesterday afternoon with obtaining $50 through false pretences from Mrs. Emile Poitras. Fortier received the money from Mrs. Poitras on the understanding that her husband would return to her more affectionate than ever. The lady was told to recite certain mystical formulae, but hubby failed to respond to the telephathic power.

Mrs. Poitras paid the $50 in five dollar instalments, but her husband proved adamant to the "treatment," and finally she took action against Fortier. Judgment will be given June 28.

TORONTO REQUESTING LOWER FREIGHT RATES

TORONTO, June 22. — Claiming that the Canadian Pacific Railway had a surplus of $500,000,000 and that the high freight rates were paralyzing business, Mayor Church moved at the board of control meeting today that an application be made to the Dominion Railway Commission to restore those in existence prior to the forty per cent increase.

The motion was passed, also another by the Mayor to restore the former express rates, and also for a reduction of passenger fares in addition to the reduction to come into force on July 1.

SOUTHERN IRISH SENATORS SPEAK

Declare Unwillingness to Act With Any But Elective Lower House—Catholic Hierarchy Talks Violently

LONDON, June 22.—Senators of Southern Ireland have sent a memorial to Premier Lloyd George saying:

"Having been elected to serve in the senate of Southern Ireland, we desire to place on record in accepting such appointment that we do so with the intention of exercising the fullest freedom of action regarding the powers to be hereafter granted the parliament and government of Southern Ireland.

"We are of the opinion that the powers given under the present act are insufficient. We urge on the government that the earliest possible steps be taken to recast the act.

"We desire, further, to make it clear that we are ready to act in the second chamber with a lower House, sitting constitutionally as representing a majority of the electors, but we are not prepared to exercise our functions in connection with any body maintained by the Lord Lieutenant to replace the elected lower House."

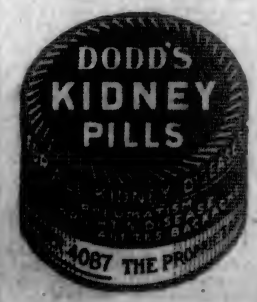

Hierarchy Speaks

DUBLIN, June 22.—The Catholic hierarchy has issued a declaration in which it declares "indignities, outrages and every horror have been intensified in Ireland, which is now threatened with darker deeds because Irishmen rightly have spurned the sham settlement devised by the British government in defiance of Ireland."

The declaration complains that a special government has been given to one section of the Irish, "remarkable at all times for intolerance," without the slightest provision to safeguard the victims of ever-recurring cruelty and persecution directed against the Catholics of Belfast."

"Until repression ceases and Ireland's rights to choose her own form of government is recognized, there is no prospect for peace," says the declaration.

MASONS ATTEND CHURCH SERVICE

St. John's Filled by Members of Fraternity Holding Convention Here Yesterday Afternoon

Impressive services were held yesterday afternoon at St. John's Church for the members of the Masonic Order in convention here. At 4:30 the Masons marched in a body to the church and filled the pews and a part of the aisles. It was probably the largest congregation the church has had in more than a year.

Rev. F. A. P. Chadwick, the rector, assisted by Ensign Sharp, of Toronto, was in charge of the ceremonies, which commenced with the singing of the hymn, "O God, Our Help in Ages Past." The service was printed on cards, which were distributed to all members of the concourse.

Canon Hinchliffe was among the clergy present at the services, and a full choir was in attendance. The choir rendered one hymn alone, and in the others the congregation joined.

Rev. Mr. Chadwick delivered a forceful sermon, in which he dwelt upon some of the ideals of the Masonic fraternity.

CIVIL SERVICE MUST COST LESS

Sir George Foster Defends Reorganization Measures by Government—Economy and Efficiency Secured

OTTAWA, June 22.—In a statement handed out just before leaving the city for a brief holiday, Sir George Foster, acting Premier, answered criticisms which have been leveled at the Government as a result of the reorganization now taking place in the civil service.

Sir George states that a saving of $450,000 has been effected as a result of the reorganization of the department of printing and stationery, that $750,000 will be saved as a result of the reorganization of the Customs Department, and that the annual saving in administrative expenditure as a result of the reorganization of the Post Office Department probably will exceed a million dollars. In addition to the saving effected, greater efficiency is attained.

Sir George says that there is a call for the elimination of unnecessary expenditure, which is upheld generally by public opinion. On the other hand, when the Government attempts to cut down costs by reducing staffs, there is an immediate complaint from those affected.

"It is obvious," he said, "that no change for the better can be made if heed is paid to this criticism."

BERLIN, June 21.—The Prussian Government has appropriated one hundred million marks for the relief of Germans in Upper Silesia.

IRKSOME PROVISIONS

One of the Liquor Commissioners points out that all owners of private stocks must have their liquor sealed with the official Provincial seal in order to comply with the Act. He intimates that neglect to do this leaves the owner liable to have his liquor confiscated. Confiscation is a very dangerous word to employ in British communities, and especially in connection with commodities which have been secured legitimately, and which have been in the possession of the owners before the new Provincial Liquor Act came into force. We do not think that the Government could force its contention before the courts, although that is not the whole difficulty involved in the matter. The point to be decided is how the process of confiscation is to be carried out, for that is only possible through domiciliary search, and we do not believe for a moment that the Government is going to invoke this method, which would be another infringement on the liberties still left to the people.

At the time the Liquor Control Bill came before the Legislature, it was pointed out that the provision for sealing private stocks was quite unnecessary. This method would prove no safeguard against bootlegging, as the process of illicit sale is described. It is at best nothing but a policy of irritation, and we should have thought that the Government, in order to get all the legitimate business possible through its sale of liquor, would avoid doing anything which will make the present law objectionable. So far, we have heard of no instance in which the Government has attempted to impose the inland revenue tax provided for in the Liquor Control Act. Possibly the opportunity will not arise until next month, but, by then, if the Government persists in charging unwarranted prices for liquors, it is certain that private importation will continue, and that those who indulge in this method of securing what they want will not feel disposed to abide by legislation which is believed to be ultra vires of the Provincial Government.

On its part the Government should ascertain its powers without any loss of time. Its liquor trade will suffer for so long as it fails to realize the necessity of making the methods employed agreeable to public sanction. We say this with every hope that the Government will take advice and realize that the public desire is that the interpretation of the law, and the law itself, should be more in accordance with the popular wish. There is already a good deal of hostility to the permit system. There is genuine objection to the profiteering prices being charged for liquors. Open antagonism to the sealing process has not yet been evinced, simply because the Liquor Control Board has, as yet, done nothing whatever to enforce this provision of the law. These are the features of liquor control that should be rectified without loss of time, and the Government, also, should set about instituting the delivery system, which was promised by the Liquor Control Board, for without that system there are certain to be constant violations of the law.

TAXATION PROBLEMS

It had been hoped there would have been a full, open and frank discussion on the necessity for a redistribution of taxation as between the Province and the municipalities, but it does not appear that anything of the kind is going to take place. The Government is calling an Autumn session of the Legislature specifically to deal with the municipal financial problem, but, seemingly, no commission of inquiry into the subject is to be held. The attitude of Premier Oliver and his Ministers is that they already know all there is to be known about the financial plight of municipalities, so that, beyond collecting a certain amount of statistics on the subject, nothing remains but to frame legislation, presumably in the direction of giving the municipalities new taxation powers. What municipal authorities and the public generally would like to know is, what opportunity they will be given of canvassing such proposed legislation.

The Government should be open and above board regarding its intentions. We admit that practically all has been said that can be advanced in support of the claims of municipalities for recognition. They have weakened their case by proposing new taxation, instead of pointing out that the people are already overburdened, and that what is wanted is a readjustment whereby the municipalities will now share in some of the sources of revenue enjoyed by the Government, either by directly collecting the taxes or by a per capita grant from the Province. There is a widespread recognition that British Columbia is overtaxed, and that this constitutes one reason why the development of the Province within recent years has been so slow. The costs of administration have been increased out of proportion to the growth of population. The taxes have lain particularly heavy on the owners of land, and hundreds and, indeed, thousands of parcels have been forced out of private ownership through tax sales. The repercussion of the boom times in the real estate market has had a disastrous effect, which has been felt throughout the community. Municipalities, and the Government, too, were partners in the scramble which sent property assessments up to a height far beyond their real values. Taxation increased in proportion, so that benefits might be conferred on the land, and the result of it all has been that the people have been striving ineffectually to foot the bill ever since.

The Provincial Government, through the Legislature, should utilise a power which it undoubtely has, in setting something in the nature of a standard for land values. It should insist that municipal assessment is carried out on the actual value of the land, not on the hypothetical value of fanciful conclusions, or on the amount of indebtedness which prevails. The relief asked for must lessen the burden of taxation on the land, and such relief can be forthcoming without additional taxation. This is the aspect from which the Government should approach the problem. It is only four months or so before the session will be held, and it is time the Government gave some outline of the course it intends to pursue in leading to a solution of municipal problems. Unless the solution is permanent the subject will recur again and again. The credit of the Province as a whole is largely based upon the credit and welfare of its municipalities, in which some eighty-six per cent of the population dwell. This is what the Government should bear in mind in the interests of British Columbia.

INADEQUATE NEWS

Some conception of the handicaps under which the Canadian Press labors, especially in securing British news, is notably emphasised in connection with the reports now being received of the Open Golf Tournament at St. Andrews, and the world's tennis championship games at Wimbledon. Whenever possible, news dispatches in relation to these events are based on the doings of one or other of the American competitors, and, while the people of this Dominion are anxious enough to know the success of their neighbors in sport, they are more interested in the fate of the British entries. The most glaring example of the colored character of the news is found in connection with the golf championship. Although the qualifying rounds have been played, the dispatches received here do not mention who were the leading competitors. We may assume, but have not been informed, that such players as Mitchell, Duncan, Ray, Vardon, Hilton, Tolley and others, have qualified to play in the championship, but in the news dispatches their fate is regarded as of quite secondary interest, so long as there are American contestants in the running.

We cannot blame the American Associated Press for carrying dispatches which deal almost altogether with United States players, but we do blame the Canadian Press, Limited, for not attempting to satisfy the interest of the newspaper readers in this country in such happenings as the golf and tennis championships. Both these events are easily the outstanding ones, of their kind, held in the world. The news interest in them extends to practically every country, and is of particular moment in British lands. In such competitions news agencies, in our opinion, should not confine themselves to sectional and parochial viewpoints of the progress of play. The defects noted emphasize the inadequacy of the news service, and point emphatically to the need of reform. That reform cannot be expected from the Associated Press, which now supplies the news, for its dispatches are compiled exclusively for American consumption, without relation to the news appetite of Canadian readers, who, however, have to accept the American viewpoint. The reform desired lies in a news service which will come through exclusively British channels.

THE ROSE

While earth was sleeping in the opal dawn
She dreamed of beauty, for a presence bright
Laid on her breast a rose, but in the light
She wakened and her angel guest had gone.

Then softly o'er her senses, like a prayer,
A perfume drifted, known in paradise
As incense of Love's holiest sacrifice—
An evanescent fragrance sweet and rare.

O loveliness, too soon to disappear!
The wildering grace that wraps the rose's heart
Is yet the ultimate despair of art—
A pearl sun-glistening in an angel's tear.

These petals shame mortality and blight;
But beauty lustres Love's most transient thought,
Although therein our senses have but caught
One flash of splendor on the wing of night.

Liquor Control

Sir,—Will you kindly allow me space in your valuable columns to express some of the views held by myself, and a great many others, in this "now" benighted neck of the woods.

When we voted for Government control of the liquor traffic last year we were under the impression that the proposed act would confer a benefit on the Province at large, not only on the large voting centres and Liberal strongholds.

What has been the result?

Our exceedingly wise board of control, after months of see-sawing, has at last succeeded in opening a few stores in the above-mentioned places, and claim that their scheme is a howling success, "heavy on the howling." The success part may be partly true, in close proximity to these stores, but what about the vast areas like the one in which we are unfortunate enough to dwell, that are as dry in a lawful way as the Sahara, but what a field for the bootlegger. We are a thousand times worse than we were under the so-called prohibition act. We could then at least get a glass of very near beer, but even this is dealed us, since this wonderful new act came into force.

There never was a time, except of course, under the War Measures Act, "which all right thinking people were only too willing to submit to," when the fellow with the bank roll could not have his cellar full, whether for his own consumption or for something far more profitable. Is it any different now? Except, of course, he has the choice of buying from the Government store, somewhere, provided he wants to pay more.

But, what about the average individual in these outlying districts, such as here, who cannot afford to "stock up?" Was the law not framed for his benefit, too? Has our Board of Control (perish the phrase), overlooked the fact that there are thousands whose vote counted just as much as those votes in the cities, who thought when they voted that the time would come when they could purchase a bottle of whisky or beer, without having to travel or send a hundred miles or more for it?

Just think, from Cape Scott to Nanaimo, not a legitimate oasis in this desert. Drinking as a rule is not premeditated. For instance, a miner, fisherman or logger comes in here from somewhere on Barkley Sound. The day is hot. Ha, says he, we are under Government control now. Where do I get a bottle of good beer? Oh, we reply, that is easy, just keep on going until you get to Nanaimo, they have a perfectly legitimate Government store there. Or, if you object to a little walk of sixty miles, you buy a permit at the Government office, a money order at the post office, fill out a few more forms, and, in the course of a few days, or a week, you may get a bottle of beer (perhaps). Mr. Miner & Co. says, look here, I don't want a drink this time next week, or next month, I want it now, and I believe I know where I can get it. To hades with your Government control. Enter the bootlegger with "something just as good," and Mr. miner, fisherman, logger, etc., proceed to do business with him, and, can you blame them?

In the name of common sense what are the people thinking of, that they submit to such a hash up of a perfectly good law, provided it was carried out as the voters interpreted it? What has become of our moderation league? Is it moderation or even fair play, that the big fellow, in places such as this, can buy and drink an unlimited amount, while the working man cannot even get a glass of beer when he needs it? I hope the legislators who are responsible for this most absurd and ridiculous state of affairs do not forget that there will be another election some day, and it does not require very strong eyesight to read the handwriting on the wall.

SPRING FLOWERS ON VANCOUVER ISLAND

Mr. W. C. McCalla, Edmonton Botanist, Remarks on Distinctive Features of Wild Plant Life Here

Mr. W. C. McCalla, of Edmonton, author of "Wild Flowers of Western Canada," a volume which is used in the Alberta schools as a reference book on botany, is a visitor in the city at present, and has just returned from a week's trip to Lillooet and other points in the Fraser River Valley district. He has been in this part of Canada on several occasions studying and photographing the flora of the country, and on this visit he has collected a very fine gallery of pictures for his own reference and for library use should he find them in demand. He states that the abundance and variety of spring flowers in this part of the Dominion makes a visit here at this time of the year or earlier of particular interest to the Prairie botanist, who has to wait until the Summer is well advanced to get the specimens which he seeks. Spring on Vancouver Island and all up and down the British Columbia coast is a leisurely season, and each day in the month's advance there is some little change to note in the progress of the blooms and the addition to the varieties. On the Prairies, on the contrary, warm weather comes with a rush, and all the sleeping forces of Nature start to life in a single night. This makes for a quite different set of conditions, and the flora have to be studied more hurriedly in this short season during which they bloom.

"In the Prairies we have practically no Spring flowers," said Mr. McCalla. "Our wealth of wild flowers comes in Summer. Also we differ from you in having no woodland flowers such as you are familiar with or such as are to be found in Ontario. Also in Victoria you have a great variety of soils, and your rock-plants are remarkable for their numbers. In the Prairies we have no rock-plants."

These are things which the local student of flowers will appreciate better, perhaps, after realizing how barren the country might be if it lay, as the Prairies do, under the spell of Winter for so many months in the year. Mr. McCalla has not allowed much to escape his notice, and his collection of photographs alone would be invaluable to any student of local flora.

Mr. McCalla has been "botanizing" for the past twenty years, at least, although it is still more a hobby than a vocation. It was through the interest of one of the officials of the Department of Education in Alberta that he was persuaded to publish in book form something about his discoveries in this field of science. Some time ago Kew Gardens, London, accepted a collection of Prairie flowers which he sent, and the Smithsonian Institute has also added a collection to their archives.

Trees as well as flowers come within Mr. McCalla's purview, and he has had some interesting chats with Mr. C. C. Pemberton on a subject which is a well-known hobby with the latter.

NO DECISION YET

Police Board-Council Discussion Over Police Salaries Is Being Considered

As yet the Provincial Cabinet has reached no decision in respect of the the step taken by the Board of Police Commissioners to increase the salary of police officers by $15 per month.

The arguments of the Council and Board were threshed out before the Cabinet on Tuesday, and the promise was received from the Premier that the matter would receive the consideration of the Government.

Yesterday, when asked if the Cabinet had reached a decision on the matter, the Premier admitted that so far it was in abeyance and that he and his confreres were nonplussed as to the decision to be rendered.

The present right of appeal contained in the Municipal Act against a decision by the Board of Police Commissioners is one retained from the old act under which the appointment of Police Commissioners was made by the Government. But that practice has long since expired, though the section in the act still remains.

As Attorney-General Farris stated at Tuesday's conference, unless there was some principle at stake, it was no matter for the Government.

While Premier Oliver yesterday had nothing to say relative to the probable decision of the Government, he intimated that in his opinion it was one to be decided between the City Council and Board of Police Commissioners. However, what decision is reached by the Cabinet will shortly be communicated to the Council.

FRANCE'S MISSION REACHES NEW YORK

NEW YORK, June 22.—The members of the special mission appointed by the French Government officially to thank Canada for coming to the aid of France in the war, arrived on the steamer Paris, the new ship of the French Line, which concluded her maiden voyage when she docked here this morning. The mission is headed by Marshal Fayolle.

The mission will open a Franco-Canadian exposition train at Montreal. It brought for presentation to the Canadian Government a bust by Rodin, symbolic of France after her victory, bearing in French the inscription: "To Canada, which has poured out the blood of her sons for the liberty of the world, from grateful France".

GOVERNMENT LIQUOR BUSINESS IS GROWING

At Present a Turnover Estimated at $10,000 Per Day Is Being Made — Soldier Clubs Is Problem

At the present time the Liquor Control Board is doing a business of approximately $10,000 per day throughout the Province, and with the daily increasing demand for refreshments on the part of the populace this demand is expected to steadily increase until the daily business touches the $25,000 a day mark.

While business in Victoria has been steady though not marked by any decided demand for liquor—it is surmised that the great bulk of probable customers here have their supplies laid in—the demand in Vancouver has of late shown marked signs of improvement, and at up-country points there has been a persistent demand at the Government stores.

Mr. J. H. Falconer, the Vancouver member on the Board, returned to Victoria on Tuesday following a trip designed to see the new act inaugurated and working conditions perfected to meet the demand.

Everywhere he went, Mr. Falconer stated, the people showed the utmost disposition to assist the authorities in the inauguration of what they realized, is a difficult business. In Vancouver the action of the Board in opening a store in the warehouse secured from Mr. C. E. Campbell has proved, Mr. Falconer states, a convenience to the public and had reduced the overhead charge imposed by the purchase of the premises.

While in Vancouver Commissioner Falconer interviewed the soldier organizations on the question of beer in soldier clubs. These organizations have written a letter to the Board setting forth that they be allowed to have beer dispensed for refreshment purposes for the benefit of members only, but not for sale. This proposal will be considered by the Board.

It is no secret that the Board is not seeking to stop the consumption of liquor in bona-fide clubs. In view of the fact that the present act will be under revision at the Fall sitting of the legislature, there is no disposition on the part of the Board to inaugurate any programme that will antagonize the soldier clubs at the present time.

Local soldier clubs have been keeping close watch upon developments and so far they have acquiesced in the new law. Investigation of conditions in Vancouver have been made and a report thereon will probably be presented at a meeting of the Army and Navy Veterans Association tonight. The various ex-service organizations have been keeping on their bar-tenders pending a decision as to whether they should sell beer or not. There was nothing definite forthcoming from the Board yesterday relative to what action, if any, would be taken against the recalcitrant clubs, but in view of the early amendments to the act it is understood that the Board will not raise a very contentious point at this stage, especially if the sale of beer in soldiers' clubs is confined strictly to bona-fide members.

At the present time the Board is paying in Victoria, $1,500 per month for the Pither & Leiser warehouse premises, on Wharf Street; $200 per month for the quarters secured for a store in the former St. Francis Hotel premises, and $275 per month for the quarters in which is located the store at 755 Yates Street.

BEER SELLING IN CLUBS CONTRADICTED

Denial Is Given to Press Report That Veterans' Clubs Would Sell Beer in Canteens

Emphatic denial of the reports that the Veterans' Clubs would under present conditions sell beer over their bars, was given out last night by the Army and Navy Veterans, the Great War Veterans' Association, the Grand Army of United Veterans, and the Veterans of France.

The rumors that the Army and Navy Veterans had taken the first steps in the city towards the selling of beer to their members was flatly contradicted by Mr. C. F. L. Money, secretary of the Victoria unit of the organization. Mr. Money said: "No authority was given from the secretary's office for the statements appearing in print last night that the Army and Navy Veterans, of Victoria, would open their canteen on Friday for the sale of beer to its members along similar lines followed by their Vancouver branch, and that assertion is without foundation. However, a delegate from our organization has visited the Vancouver branch, and will present his report to a special meeting of the executive which will be held this evening."

Mr. R. A. McIntyre, secretary of the Veterans of France, stated that that body didn't consider it the proper attitude for the soldier clubs to openly defy the law, and that as far as the Veterans of France were concerned there would be no move taken towards selling beer during the present week. The officials of the G. W. V. A. last night knew nothing about the proposal for the reopening of the soldiers' canteens, and stated that no action had been taken nor even discussed by them.

The Grand Army of United Veterans remain as has been before intimated. They refuse to sell beer in their quarters here until they learn the final outcome of their test case in Vancouver. As no arrests have as yet been made in their branch on the Mainland, the local organization is standing pat, awaiting what action is taken by the authorities in respect to the Terminal City branch.

MOUNT DOUGLAS IS SCENE OF PICNIC

Civic Outing Draws Many to Picturesque Spot — Band, Dances and Hill Climbing Are Features

Mount Douglas Park was the destination of many picnic parties yesterday afternoon and evening and until after 9 o'clock it was the scene of great festivity. The civic outing, under the auspices of the Chamber of Commerce, was carried out according to the programme set, and it succeeded in its principal object, to acquaint Victorians with the beauty and charm of the park and its advantages as a camping site for motor tourists.

The picnic was held under ideal weather conditions and the sky was so clear that those who climbed Mount Douglas (Cedar Hill) could clearly distinguish Mount Rainier, south of Seattle, while Mount Baker, the Olympics and other nearer mountains were plainly visible as well.

"Everyone here today is convinced that the Victoria-Saanich Beaches and Parks Committee made a wise move when it had this park prepared for the public," said Mr. John Wood, chairman of the Chamber of Commerce picnic committee. "We now intend to go before the City Council and the Saanich authorities with a view to having special provision made at Mount Douglas Park for the accommodation of motor tourists who may want to camp out for the night. There is plenty of room at Mount Douglas Park. All we need now is the authority."

Jitneys, leaving the corner of Yates and Blanshard Streets at frequent intervals after 2:30, carried most of the picnickers, although a great many private cars went out, too.

Successful Hill Climbers

A feature of the afternoon events was the hill-climbing competition. The following members of the party, who reached the top of the hill, are entitled to free passes to Victoria theatres: Mrs. Andrew Haggart, Miss Dorothy Haggart, Alfred Hayward, Mrs. Tildesley, J. Tildesley, G. W. and Mrs. Berrett, Mr. and Mrs. E. Diiger, M. McQueen, W. H. Read, Phyllis Read, Frank Read, M. Dunn, G. Beautiful Dances

A bevy of young girls under the direction of Mrs. Marjorie Walker gave some enjoyable dances, the first being a maypole dance and the other being executed in butterfly costume.

The band of the Great War Veterans' Association played the accompaniment for the dancing and rendered a musical programme from 7 until 9.

Those who went on the picnic took their own refreshments, the park authorities providing hot water. Mr. R. W. Field, who holds the concessions for the park, supplied many of the picnickers with fruit, ice cream and confectionery. Mr. Field's tea house, of rustic design, is now being completed.

CENTENNIAL FETE WELL PATRONIZED

Successful Garden Party and High Tea, Followed by Concert, Were Held on Church Grounds

The grounds of the Centennial Methodist Church and Parsonage were well filled yesterday afternoon, when a very successful garden party was held, the proceeds of which will be devoted toward the general church fund. The place was decorated with Japanese lanterns, and the many booths of saleable articles were prettily decorated. The affair was continued into the evening, when, after a high tea had been served in the schoolroom, a very enjoyable programme was rendered.

Strawberries and cream were in plentiful quantities at yesterday's fete, and Mrs. Keddy, Mrs. Phillips, Mrs. J. H. Shires, Mrs. A. Eden and Miss Bird were kept busy in fulfilling the demand for them. The home-cooking stall was convened by Mrs. Redman, and the ice cream department was superintended by Mesdames Northern and F. Fox. Candies were sold by Mrs. Mardelle, and Mrs. F. H. Parsons disposed of a large number of flowers. Mrs. Hoy was in charge of the butterfly painting contest, while the cafeteria, which was run in the ladies' parlor of the church, was handled by Mrs. William Hunt. Mrs. T. Hammond looked after the beverages, and during the afternoon Nelson Griffith and Bert Mars contributed musical selections on the violin and guitar.

The high tea, which was served at 6:30 o'clock, was partaken of by more than 100 people, who sat down to a feast of good things provided by the ladies of the congregation and arranged by the following committee: Mesdames J. L. Leigh (convener), W. N. Mitchell, Slater, Graham, Jeffray, King, Mills and Warner. Rev. Mr. Batty, pastor of the church, opened the supper with grace, and presided at the head of the tables.

Many who were unable to attend the affair during the day came in the evening, and were treated to a good programme, which ran from 7:30 until 11 o'clock.

A juvenile club advertises: "You furnish the job, we furnish the boy." A correspondant states that he saw in an English saloon an amusing variant of the above, as follows: "You furnish the bob, we furnish the joy."—Boston Transcript.

PINNACLE OF TOUR REACHED IN VICTORIA

So Says Dan McNeill, of D.F.A. —Scots Were Guests of City at Banquet Last Night at Dominion Hotel

"The pinnacle of the whole tour was reached here in Victoria," declared Dan McNeill, president of the D.F.A., at the civic banquet to the visiting Scottish footballers at the Dominion Hotel last night. "The task of bringing this team to British Columbia was a delicate problem at one time, but the attendance at today's game absolutely put the cap on the trip. The proceeds, of course, go to the Dominion Football Association, but the Provinces will get their share in time. Whatever is left over after all expenses have been met will be divided up, and as far as I will have power to do so I shall see that British Columbia and the clubs here get what is due them."

While somewhat accustomed to banquets in the course of their tour, the Scots thoroughly enjoyed last night's proceedings, which were of a very brief nature owing to the fact that they were leaving by the night boat. Speeches were short, and in the main of the same tenor, congratulatory to the play of the afternoon, to the tour of the Scotsmen in Canada, and of the good that will have been done for the game in this country. Some of the old-timers of the game in Victoria, notably Mr. J. G. Brown, who put Victoria on the football map in 1886 or thereabouts, and Mr. W. M. Allan, both of whom learned the game on the unfenced fields of Glasgow, were present, and enlivened the evening with their reminiscences. Mr. J. T. Adam was chairman.

Civic Good Wishes

In the absence of Mayor Porter, Alderman A. E. Todd did the honors for the city, thanked the Scots for their appreciation of Victoria, both as to football and to the scenic beauty of the Malahat Drive, and wished them continued success throughout the rest of their tour, and a safe journey home.

Dan McNeill referred to the football tangle of last year, and was sure that this Summer the B.C.F.A. would fall into line with the rest of the Dominion.

The game here yesterday would be a great help to soccer in Victoria, said Billy Allan. Not only that, but the experience both of Canada and the United States gained by the tourists during the present few months would have a lasting effect in the good relations that must bind the English-speaking people.

Lester Patrick, after witnessing all three games played by the Scottish team on the Coast, avowed himself as well on the road to becoming a soccer fanatic.

Souvenirs Presented

Colonel Wilson, manager of the Scots, replying on their behalf, paid tribute to the excellent time that had been experienced from the Atlantic to the Pacific. The purpose of the tour was to improve and foster the game here, and if it had been helpful in the smallest respect in that way the players had achieved what they came for. In concluding, he performed a little duty that the Scots have carried out with all of their opponents in presenting the president of the Victoria Football Club and each one of the eleven players of the afternoon with a souvenir badge. The memento is in the form of a medal, bearing the Scottish lion rampant and the regimental badge of the Third Lanark Rifle Volunteers on the face. The background is of thistles and Canada, 1921, engraved below, with the regimental and, incidentally, club colors attached. The significance of the souvenir is in the fact that the tour to Canada is sponsored by the Third Lanark Football Club, which sprung after the war from the war-time organization of the Rifle Volunteers.

A general medley of cheers for Scots and Victorians, and the singing of "Auld Lang Syne," brought the banquet to a close. Messrs. Neil Black, Scotch comedian, J. T. Brown and Bob Morrison, contributed to the musical programme.

CLOSING EXERCISES AT STRAWBERRY VALE

Exhibit of School Work Is Feature—Trustee Hull Speaks of Need of Accommodation in Saanich

The closing exercises took place at the Strawberry Vale School yesterday afternoon when about seventy parents were present. This year's closing took the form of an exhibition of work done by the pupils, and was opened at 3:30 by Trustee A. E. Hull, who spoke briefly upon the excellent character of work exhibited and the rapid progress shown by the children during the year. Another feature of Mr. Hull's remarks was his reference to the lack of adequate accommodation and the difficulties to be overcome in this regard by the School Board. He foresaw the presentation of a money by-law to the Saanich ratepayers to carry on the necessary extensions, and he emphasized the fact that unless the by-law carried the Board would be unable to furnish accommodation for the incoming school children next term.

It was pointed out by Miss Christine E. Williams, principal of the school, that about twenty-six additional children were expected in the receiving class next term, thereby making it necessary to have fifty children in each of the three rooms which, she stated, would be impossible conditions.

A short programme succeeded the introductory remarks, and the following pupils contributed songs and recitations: Charles Fulton, Byron MacNutt, Violet Redman, Jean Murray, Eileen Bennett, Marie Fisher and Irene Townsend.

Mrs. Foster, president of the Strawberry Vale Women's Institute, spoke a few words, commending the teachers upon their year's work, after which the rolls of honor were distributed. The judging of the children's work was done by Mrs. Hall and Mrs. Layrits, this committee being chosen by the Institute which so kindly gave prizes.

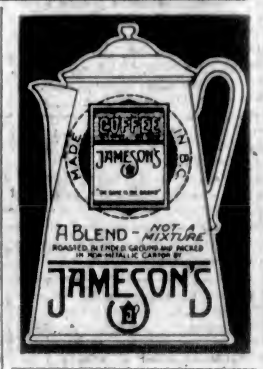

On Friday the children and parents will leave the school for the annual picnic to be held at Cordova Bay. It is hoped that all parents will attend to make this an enjoyable ending of a successful term.

NEW FUEL SAVER

Invention of Victorian Is Attracting Interest of Local Housewives

The "Aimsfeld" detachable fuel saver, the invention of a Victorian and which can be made to fit any stove is now on sale here at the Victoria Stove Exchange, 940 Yates Street, where there are daily demonstrations of its value. It is a contrivance which can be fitted into the firebox for use, when it is desired to save fuel, and which need not be removed when a larger fire is needed. Through it the fuel is kept in one small compact mass, and consequently an amount, estimated at over 50 per cent on the customary consumption, is saved. There is a draught shield attached and when the fire is well under way a damper can be closed which leads to the oven, the stove generally, becoming heated.

The fuel saver, which has been introduced first to Victorians after being patented, is being made by the B.C. Iron Works, and has already created a good deal of interest among local housewives.

Van Eisen

God spake three times and saved Van Eisen's soul;
He spake by sickness first, and made him whole;
Van Eisen heard Him not,
Or soon forgot.

God spake to him by wealth; the world outpoured
Its treasures at his feet, and called him lord;
Van Eisen's heart grew fat
And proud thereat.

God spake the third time when the great world smiled.
And in the sunshine slew his little child.
Van Eisen like a tree
Fell hopelessly.

Then in the darkness came a voice which said,
"As thy heart bleedeth so My heart hath bled;
As I have need of thee,
Thou needest Me."

That night Van Eisen kissed the baby feet,
And kneeling by the narrow winding sheet
Praised Him with fervent breath
Who conquered death.

BOY SCOUTS' MEETING

An enthusiastic and well-attended meeting of those interested in the Boy Scout movement was held last night in the schoolroom of St. John's Church, Mr. R. Ross occupying the chair. The chairman outlined the general condition of the executive when he first became a member of it, and contrasted its present condition with that of last year.

It was suggested that more publicity for Scout work was necessary, and it was the opinion that it was essential that there should be central headquarters of the Scout movement. A motion to that effect was adopted, and it was suggested that the executive committee be enlarged so as to have two representatives from every parents' committee or separate organization.

The meeting decided to request Dr. Robertson, Dominion Boy Scout Commissioner, to address a public meeting on his visit to the city in July. It was decided to hold a joint garden fete and scout demonstration in the later Summer to augment the scout funds and to educate the public as to the work which the scouts are doing.

There are eight pipers and five drummers in the Victoria band, which, it may be recalled, last year won the Stewart Trophy Cup in the Pipe Band contest in Vancouver. Fifteen "Kiltie" bands are booked to appear in the forthcoming competition in Seattle, so it will be a distinct feather in the cap of the local organization if it succeeds in winning any laurels on this occasion. On the first Sunday in August the local pipers are going to Vancouver to compete for the Stewart Cup a second time, and are hopefully looking forward to retaining the trophy. Pipe-Major Cameron will take the Victoria pipers to Seattle.

Princess Patricia Lodge, Daughters of St. George, Will Have Service Sunday Afternoon

Members of the Princess Patricia Lodge, No. 238, Order Daughters of St. George, will hold their memorial service Sunday next, at 3 o'clock, in the Lodge rooms, 1231 Government Street. This day is set aside for the purpose of honoring the Order's deceased sisters throughout Canada and the U.S.A. All members are requested to attend, and friends are cordially invited. This memorial service will be held wherever Primary Lodges are instituted.

Last night the members held a very successful card party, 15 tables being in progress, and the winners being: Mesdames Wyles and Watson and Messrs. Pirie and J. Pedigrew; at the second table, Messrs. Pike, Sampson, Wolfe and Weeks. Next week the lucky winners of the ten bid will be presented with a pair of live Wyandotte chickens.

The committee in charge of last night's party was Convener Mrs. Coleman, president, assisted by Mesdames King, Fieldhouse and Gorton.

SERVICE OF SONG

Unique Programme of Music Presented at Centennial Church Sunday Evening

An interesting programme of music was given on Sunday evening last at Centennial Methodist Church. The first part of the service took the form of an old hymn service, when hymns dating from the year 1500 to 1700 A.D. were sung by choir and congregation.

The regular service was musical in character, Mendelssohn's "Hear My Prayer," was well rendered, Mrs. E. T. Gould taking the solo. Miss Winifred Bell sang "Consider the Lilies," and Mr. J. W. Peich sang (a) "Thus Saith the Lord," (b) "But Who May Abide the Day of His Coming," (c) "For He Is Like a Refiner's Fire." The closing anthem dates from the days of the Wesleys, "Blessed Be the God and Father," by S. Sebastian Wesley.

Perfect Wire Rope.

To large extent the user of wire ropes must take them on trust—or, at least, on the faith inspired by the maker's name. And few of them can have any notion of the elaborate and detailed care taken to ensure that a wire rope will not murderously betray the men depending upon its strength at sea, in mines, or on constructional work. The policy adopted by one of the leading British makers of wire ropes will, however, serve to illustrate the fact that there is much more in a wire rope than meets the eye. To begin with, the firm produces all the component parts of the rope from the raw materials in its own factory. It therefore has direct control of everything from A to Z. The steel for the wire is made in the firm's own steel works and is carefully tested to make sure that it is of the exact quality required. A sample of every "melt" of steel is chemically analyzed and the analysis is filed so that the makers know the precise composition of the steel in every piece of rope that goes out of the factory. All the wire is drawn from steel used which passes the test, and it is carefully galvanized. In the laboratory photographs are taken under the microscope to reveal structure of every piece of wire. Before any coil of wire is used for rope making it has to go through rigid pulling, bending, and twisting tests, winding up with a test in which a length of wire is made into a coil and straightened out again and again until breakage takes place. Many wire ropes have a hempen core to give them greater flexibility, and in making this core the same patient care and supervision are expressed.

About fifty residents of the Colwood District attended the garden fete and sale of work which was held yesterday afternoon at the residence of Mrs. R. F. Waddington, Goldstream Road, under the auspices of the Langford Women's Institute. The affair was opened at 3 o'clock by Mrs. Holmes of the Highland District, and proceeds of the afternoon amounted to $128.

A number of attractive stalls were well patronized. The home cooking booth was in charge of Mesdames Aldridge and Pike; afternoon tea, Mrs. Waddington and Miss Spratt; candy, Misses L. Waddington and Thom; work table, Mrs. Coucher and Miss Hockley; and rummage sale, Miss Elsie Waddington. The ladies of the Institute wish to thank all who contributed towards the success of the afternoon.

Warehouse Appliances

One of the most complete equipments in the world for the handling of goods is to be found at the warehouse of the Port of Manchester, England. It includes cranes, electric runways, gravity conveyors, electric battery trucks, and electric "tiering" devices. The gravity conveyor consists of an inclined plane with rollers down which crates and other packages can be slid. It is in a portable form, and by means of it as many as three thousand packages can be dealt with in one day. The tiering machine is used for stacking bales of cotton, cases of lemons, and similar packages. A vertical ladder-like arrangement carries a horizontal platform which is raised and lowered by means of an electric motor. The whole machine can be moved from one place to another and it is capable of lifting a load of 1,500 lbs. The electric runway consists of overhead rails from which hang electric grabs which pick up casks, and so on, and transport them to the place of storage in minimum of time.

BEAVER LAKE CAMP TO OPEN ON JULY 4

Encampment This Year to Be Larger and Better—General Outline of Programme to Be Carried Out

Plans go on apace for the Beaver Lake Y.M.C.A. Boys' Camp, which opens on July 4 and will continue until August 8. "Bigger and better than ever," is the description that is apt. There will be ten tents capable of holding nine boys each, and the new pavilion will form an assembly hall for meals and gatherings of various kinds. A recreation field is being prepared in order that indoor baseball and other games may be played.

For nine years the Victoria Y.M.C.A. has held annual camps for boys and has gained the confidence of parents by its programme and careful supervision. The ideal site at Beaver Lake, used last Summer, has again been loaned by the city authorities. Several improvements have been made to the camp and equipment, so that Victoria boys now have one of the best camps in Western Canada.

The pavilion is thirty by sixty feet, with kitchen, open fireplace, library, etc. This will be used as dining room, providing accommodation for amateur evenings and entertainments, and take care of the campers in wet weather.

New 12x14 tents have been secured with board floors. A new wharf has been built, the diving spring boards renewed, and two new boats added to the fleet.

The camp is divided into units of eight boys in a tent, under a young man as tent leader. An elected council of the boys will assist in the government of the camp. The camp director will be Mr. Harold Cross, boys' secretary of the Y.M.C.A., and Mr. Delmer Battrick, assistant director. Miss Mouat has again been secured as cook. Last year's campers will know that this means lots of first-class food, well prepared.

Activities will be many and varied. Every day will be full of clean, wholesome fun, and our aim is to develop a boy on all sides of his nature. Baseball, swimming, boating, field sports, volley ball, hikes, competitions, Bible study lantern lectures, camp fire stunts, show nights, Sunday services, all have their place.

The programme of instruction will include nature study, swimming, athletics, first aid, camp craft, handling of boats, etc. Honor badges will be awarded boys who qualify as all round campers. Trips will be made to various points of interest.

Everything possible will be done to look after the health of the boys and insure their safety. Swimming is allowed only during scheduled periods, under strict supervision. A patrol boat will be in attendance in charge of a competent swimmer. The camp director reserves the right to expel any boy who will not live up to the standard of conduct required.

Good clothes are not the fashion at Beaver Lake. A boy's usual costume consists of running shoes, khaki trousers and a sleeveless.

The camp particularly welcomes the visit of parents and friends on Saturday afternoons. Tea will be served to visitors. The camp can be reached by the Sidney bus.

The camp will be open to boys as follows: Youngs boys, ages 10 and 11, will be allowed to attend the first week, July 4 to July 11. For the rest of the camp period the age limits will be 12 to 17 years.

Camp applications should be signed by parents before June 25.

MASONS MEET AT BANQUET BOARD

Many Present

The body of the hall was fitted with long tables, every one filled to capacity. Throughout the banquet, at which the chief speakers were visitors, the keynote was brotherhood. During the progress of the after-dinner programme the Masonic choir of fifteen voices rendered a number of selections most acceptably, receiving hearty applause from the great concourse of diners. All in all, it was undoubtedly one of the most successful events in the history of the Masonic Order in this city, where, fifty years ago, the present Grand Lodge of British Columbia was inaugurated.

The dinner was an excellent one, served under the careful direction of Mr. James Robinson, and full justice was done thereto. Following the dinner, a programme which did not terminate until 11:30 p.m., was inaugurated by the chairman proposing toasts to the King and to the President of the United States, toasts which were acknowledged in time-honored fashion with appropriate music.

The chairman extended to the visiting brethren a hearty and loyal welcome, referring to the honor which Victoria possessed in having been the birthplace of the Grand Lodge of British Columbia. He declared that the year 1871, that in which the Grand Lodge was organized, was one of the most important in the history of the Province, for then it had been decided to sever the ties binding the order to the Old Country affiliations and unite with the Dominion jurisdiction.

Tender Greetings

In response to the toast to the Most Worshipful Grand Lodge of British Columbia, Right Worshipful Brother Dr. Gorrall, of Regina, paid a tribute to British Columbia and its "grand, glorious body of Masons," and suggested that perhaps there must be a reason why the magnificent roadways of the Province are now thronged with tourists from the arid belts of Alberta and Washington.

Right Worshipful Brother James MacCaulay, of Saskatchewan, also extended greetings of the Grand Lodge of that Province to that of British Columbia.

In response to the toast, Chairman Wallace, greeted with three times three and the singing of "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow," declared but one description would fit the gathering, and that was "marvelous." He referred to the loyalty of the number of the craft in this Province to the Grand Lodge and to the great increase in the number of constituent lodges. Never, he declared, in the history of the Order it stood so high in the estimation of the world as at present. He regretted he would be unable to see the centennial of the Grand Lodge, a pleasure reserved for the younger members.

The toast to "Sister Grand Lodges" brought responses from Right Worshipful Brothers Harry Watson, of Vancouver; Lewis Smith, of Montana, and James Campbell, of the Grand Lodge of Alberta. All united in eulogizing the spirit of hospitality displayed by their British Columbia brethren and extending greetings from their home jurisdictions.

Stand United

"Those who seek to stir up strife between the United States and Great Britain are the enemies of Masonry," declared Mr. Smith. "But there need be no fear as long as Masonry has the splendid material it has within its ranks," he declared, amid loud applause.

"Free Masonry as a Living Issue Today" was the text of an eloquent address made by Most Worshipful Brother, the Rev. C. Ensor Sharp, who was frequently interrupted with applause as he emphasized the spirit of Masonry, one of love and service. He made an appeal to the youth of today to carry on the principles for which the Order stands, pointing to the fact that at no time in history have the doors of Masonry been so crowded with applicants as today. In the face of the recent war and the prevailing conditions, he held, it was most extraordinary that Free Masonry should be such a wonderful force today as it is. Why did Masonry have such a wonderful attraction for men? Because it recognized that if the man is to be helped he must be understood as a trinity of soul, one free and yet ready to submit to authority. The love of God, the great Creator of the universe, should be the guiding principle, he held.

"In these days is it not worth while to feel what a great heritage we have. The world is throbbing with unrest, is unhappy through selfishness, but amidst all there stands this magnificent body of men who, true to themselves, will actually prove to be the salvation of civilization," declared the speaker amid applause.

"Free Masonry and the Progress of Civilization" was the theme of Most Worshipful Brother James H. Begg, who represented the State of Washington Grand Lodge in the place of the Hon. Thomas E. Skaggs, who was unable to come to Victoria. Mr. Begg, who recalled that it was just twenty-one years since he, fresh from Scotland, arrived in Victoria, declared: "As I stand here under two flags, as I listen to this spirit of reciprocity this spirit of Free Masonry, is it any wonder that I am glad to be here. I believe that so long as the two countries stand side by side they hold the peace of the world in the hollow of their hands."

"Brotherhood of Man"

"Not alone was that Great Charter wrested from King John for the benefit of the English people, but for the whole world," he declared amid applause. Whether of British Columbia or the State of Washington, Masonry stood for the Fatherhood of God, the brotherhood of man."

An especially enjoyable feature of the function was the singing of the Masonic Choir and songs by Brother William Melville, whose renditions were roundly applauded.

The banquet concluded by the singing of the National Anthem.

Yesterday an interesting feature of the first day's proceedings of the Grand Lodge session was the greetings extended to a number of the original members of the first Victoria Lodge. These veterans were given a great reception.

In announcing the motor trip around the city and environs as for yesterday an error was made. This trip will be made tomorrow and all members of the order possessed of cars are requested to notify the committee.

TRADE UNIONS HOLD JOINT CONFERENCES

LONDON, June 22.—The only development in the coal dispute today was the fixing of a joint conference for Saturday between the miners' executive and various trade unions threatened with wage cuts.

It is declared that this conference is not for the purpose of inducing other industries to join in a general strike, but rather with the hope of arranging financial assistance from the other trade unions to aid the threatened trades in continuing the political struggle.

Road to Bankruptcy

It was at the best a tactless thing to say to a House of Commons which is jealous of its power over financial matters, and still unconvinced that a mere increase of rates is the best way to procure increased revenue. Aim of the Enemy

It is Bolshevist policy to separate England and France. That being Bolshevist policy, and the Bolsheviks being the enemies of the British Empire, we are encouraged in our conclusion that all true friends of this country must work for the Entente, and not only for the Entente, but to consolidate the Entente into a solid alliance, against which these secret and public enemies will work in vain.—London Morning Post.

Oil Ousting Coal

The decision of the Admiralty to rely for the future upon oil-burning ships means a change greater than it is easy to measure. The special monopoly of Welsh coal, which gave it a constant market at high prices, goes. That will not be without permanent effects on the coal situation, especially as the big passenger steamers are also turning to oil. At present, apart from other advantages, the Admiralty discovers a financial saving in burning imported oil rather than home-produced coal."—Westminster Gazette.

CAPITOL THEATRE OPENS IN AUGUST

Victoria's New Playhouse Will Accommodate Fifteen Hundred Patrons—To Feature Pictures and Vaudeville

The new Capitol Theatre, situated at the corner of Yates and Blanshard Streets, will be officially opened to the public in the early part of August, and arrangements are now being made to present a de luxe programme at the inaugural performance of the latest addition to Victoria's playhouses.

This splendid building, which is being erected by the Paramount Theatres, Ltd., is par excellence and can be classed as one of the best of the city's theatres. The building is being built on a design submitted by J. M. Jeffray, A.R.I.B.A., an architect of Toronto, and supervised by a well-known architect of Vancouver, Mr. G. Rider Morris.

The Capitol is being built on the Italian renaissance style and combines all the modern features of a moving picture house and vaudeville theatre. The stage is sixty feet by twenty-eight feet, and containg a musicians' room, boiler and general stage properties rooms, is built of well-selected British Columbia hardwood, is complete with the necessary complement of dressing rooms, and capable of carrying either an up-to-date vaudeville or musical comedy, aside from the first run of pictures that the theatre will feature.

The grand foyer, which is elliptical in shape, contains the "grand staircase," built entirely of white marble, with an illuminated tank of picture display panels, the full length of the walls and leading both ways to the mezzanine floor and gallery. The foyer is faced by a large plateglass mirror, thirty feet wide by fifteen feet high.

Seating Capacity 1,500

Eight hundred people can be seated in the auditorium of the theatre, which will be furnished with plush-seated fauteuils of easy access. The gallery, which spans the whole width of the theatre, is built of reinforced concrete, and can comfortably seat 700 people, giving a total seating capacity of approximately 1,500 people.

The mezzanine floor contains a grand promenade, which itself is an entirely new feature to the Victoria playhouses, and leading off from the promenade are the resting rooms for ladies and gentlemen, situated on either side of the grand boggia. The manager's room is also on this floor, together with the grand lounge for ladies and gentlemen. These rooms will be furnished in up-to-date style in keeping with the Renaissance period.

The projection room, built according to the necessary plans as laid down by the theatre bylaws, which necessitate fireproof arrangements, is situated at the rear centre of the gallery, and special attention has been paid to the desirability of obtaining the best possible lighting effects for picture production. Placed prominently on either side of the theatre entrance, and facing Yates Street, are two well-equipped stores, which already are in demand by local merchants.

Orchestra and Organ

It is expected that for the opening performances there will be a ten-piece orchestra, although ample room is given to accommodate an orchestra of twenty pieces. What should appeal to the music-loving population of Victoria is a fine organ, which will be installed into the theatre with its wonderful pipe-range built into each side of the auditorium adjoining the stage, and controlled mechanically from the orchestra pit. The organ itself will not be in for the opening of the building, but will be installed later. However, a fine orchestra will provide the music until then.

Mr. J. R. Muir, the managing director for British Columbia, has supervised the general work of the building, the construction of which has been carried on by Messrs. Luney Bros., of Victoria. Practically all the material being used in the erection of the playhouse has been locally manufactured, and the brick in the building has been made by the Victoria Brick Company.

The ceiling of the theatre, which is quite elaborate, was completed yesterday, and a start is now being made on the walls. The front of the building is rapidly being finished and everything will be in readiness, it is expected, in the early part of August, for the grand opening of the building. An inspection of the building was made last week by representatives of the Famous Players Canadian Corporation, Mr. Gordon Burdick, vice-president of the Victoria Paramount Theatres, and Mr. R. H. B. Kerr, a director of the company.

KING GEORGE ASKS PARTIES IN IRELAND TO BURY HOSTILITY

way. The future lies in the hands of the Irish people themselves. May this historic gathering be the prelude of the day on which the Irish people of the north and south, under one parliament, or two, as these parliaments may themselves decide, shall work together in common love for Ireland upon the sure foundation of mutual justice and respect."

Mr. Lloyd George's Message

During the delivery of the King's speech, the whole audience remained standing. Prayers were said by the Primate of Ireland; Anglican, Presbyterian and Methodist ministers; thus all the religions represented in the parliament were recognized.

The luncheon which followed was held in a large hall, and several hundred persons sat down. Contrary to expectations, Sir James Craig, the Ulster Premier, made no pronouncement in proposing the health of the King, and the King did not reply, the toast being received with military honors.

In his message to Premier Craig, the British Prime Minister, Mr. Lloyd George, said:

"The Government, Parliament and the people of Northern Ireland have proved their capacity and patriotism by the spirit in which they have discharged the first responsibility of self-government, and they have a great opportunity before them. I hope and believe that their influence and example will assist to set the whole of Ireland, ere long, upon the path of practical co-operation, which alone can lead to realisation of Irish ideals and the security of Irish interests.

"The Government of Ireland Act has put Ireland's future in the hands of its own people, provided only that Southern Ireland renounces the claim to secession from the Empire."

Remarkable Scenes

The scenes in the streets during the royal progress, both coming and returning, were unprecedented in the national capital. Although the troops lining the route and the police in the back were not needed to protect the King and Queen, they were useful in preventing over enthusiastic crowds of loyalists from overrunning the roadway.

The Irish Guards, in brilliant red uniforms and bearskin busbies, although they did not take part in the procession, received an ovation almost equalling that of Their Majesties. The pickets assigned to various parts of the city had an easy task, for there were no disorders during the King's presence in Belfast.

The Nationalists and Sinn Feiners confined themselves to refraining from all participation in the ceremonies.

The King and Queen re-embarked on the royal yacht shortly after 4 o'clock, receiving another noisy greeting from the shipyard workers.

Parliament tomorrow will discuss the King's speech and draft a reply.

The King conferred honors on a number of prominent Belfast men. Baron Pirrie was created a viscount, and Lord Mayor Coates a baronet. Robert Baird, managing director of The Belfast Telegraph, and Trevor Henderson, director of The Belfast News, received knighthoods.

The Viceroy has received the following message from the King:

"The Queen and I are profoundly touched by the intense loyalty and enthusiasm with which we were welcomed today by the vast numbers assembled to greet us in the beautifully decorated streets of Belfast. We carry away with us the happiest, and what will be lasting, memories of this great and imposing occasion in the history of Ireland."

From Coal to Oil

During the coal strike in Great Britain remarkable activity was shown in adapting boilers in power stations to oil-firing in order to supplement the diminishing stocks of coal. Within a few weeks oil burners were constructed and fitted to the boilers, and arrangements made for pumping the oil. At one large generating station in London oil lighters with a capacity of 250 tons each were moored alongside the station and the oil pumped directly from them into a small tank from which the oil-burners were fed. As many as sixteen large boilers were converted to oil-firing in this station within four weeks. The rapidity of this emergency work revealed once more the resource of the British engineer when faced with an apparently insurmountable difficulty. Extensive conversions of the same type have been carried out on British railway locomotives.

THE GORDONS OPENED HERE YESTERDAY

Chocolate Brown Is Charming Color Scheme Chosen by Mrs. Grant Gordon for Sweet Shop

The connoisseur in candy, looking for something novel and recherche in sweetmeats, you will find it worth while to try a visit to "The Gordons," on Fort Street, next door to Jay's Antique and Curio Store, where Mrs. Grant Gordon, after a course in bonbon making in both France and London, is giving the Victoria public the benefit of her admirable skill in the art of candy making.

"I make everything myself," announced Mrs. Grant Gordon yesterday, to a reporter. "The chocolate have imported from Switzerland, and I have a large assortment of bonbons and fondants, but my specialty is the orange creme, which I make with pure orange juice, and not merely the flavoring."

Ice cream is also served at "The Gordons" in a room which has as its color scheme chocolate brown, which is artistically carried out with dainty curtains, and the chairs and individual tables are of rattan, with magnificent Oriental screens at the back of the room with flaming dragons handsomely worked with gold.

Mrs. Grant Gordon, who is the wife of Colonel James Grant Gordon, of Oak Bay, accomplished splendid work overseas during the late war, and is assisted now by Mrs. Bruton, who is manager of "The Gordons."

POPULAR TELEPHONE GIRL WED YESTERDAY

Miss Lillian Cruickshank, of This City, Became Bride of John Field at Christ Church Cathedral

A very pretty wedding, largely attended by friends of the contracting parties, was solemnized yesterday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at Christ Church Cathedral, the Rev. F. H. Fatt officiating at the ceremony in the absence of Dean Quainton, when Lillian, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. Cruickshanke, of 1004 Blanshard Street, became the bride of Mr. John Field, of Oxford, England.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, Mr. L. Cruickshanks, was charming in a beautiful gown of ivory charmeuse, with pearl trimming. She also carried a bouquet of Ophelia roses, and was attended by her sister, Miss Bessie Cruickshanks, as bridesmaid, who wore a pretty frock of buttercup colored organdie. The groom was supported by his brother, Hubert Field, as best man.

Following the ceremony the bridal party, accompanied by the guests, repaired to the home of the bride's parents, where a reception was held. Mr. and Mrs. Field were the recipients of a large number of gifts. After the honeymoon, which will be spent on the Mainland, they will make their home in this city. The bride's going-away suit was of sand-colored tricolette with becoming picture hat. She has been connected with the staff of the B.C. Telephone Company for the past eight years, and was presented upon her departure with a handsome silver cake basket, and was also the guest of honor at a shower and a farewell supper given by the staff.

A meeting of the Florence Nightingale Chapter, I.O.D.E., was held yesterday afternoon at the home of the Regent, Mrs. H. F. Crowe, Dallas Road, when it was announced that the sum of $427 was netted from the recent garden fete at Hatley Park. A standing vote of thanks was passed to Mrs. Dunsmuir for the use of her beautiful home. Miss Dunsmuir is kindly paying the expenses incurred by the affair. A bouquet of iris and carnations was presented to Mrs. Catterall from the Chapter members, accompanied by their sincere thanks for the admirable manner in which Mrs. Catterall convened the tea arrangements at the garden fete.

Mrs. R. S. Day, the Chapter's representative at the recent national annual convention in Toronto, read her report, which was greatly appreciated by the members, who passed a vote of thanks to Mrs. Day.

The sum of $12.50 was voted to the Soldiers' Graves Committee.

Discussion arose concerning the Chapter's bazaar, which will be held in the Fall, November 16 being the date for which reservation will be asked from Municipal. Two hundred dollars has been set aside for the Hospital Reserve Fund. Yesterday's meeting will be the last for the Summer months, the next being held in September. After the business was concluded tea was served.

COMMANDER HOLMES' HOST AT "AT HOME"

Two Hundred Guests at Charming Affair at Naval Dockyard, Esquimalt—Tea Served on Lawn

The charming old grounds at the Naval Dockyard, Esquimalt, were en fete yesterday afternoon when Commander H. E. Holme, R.C.N., and officers of H. M. C. S. JUNE WEDDING WAS OF GREAT BEAUTY

Nuptials of Miss Catharine Oliver and Mr. Erroll Gillespie Quietly Solemnized Yesterday

High noon yesterday marked the hour of an exceedingly pretty wedding, which was quietly solemnized at Christ Church Cathedral, when Beatrice Lydia Catharine, only daughter of the late Mr. W. E. Oliver and Mrs. Oliver, of Oak Bay, was united in marriage to Erroll Pilkington, eighth son of Mr. and Mrs. George Gillespie, of "Highwood," Moss Street. The Rev. F. H. Fatt officiated at the ceremony, which was witnessed only by the immediate relatives of the young couple and their intimate friends.

The bride, who entered the church on the arm of Mr. H. G. Lawson, was radiantly beautiful in a gown of ivory charmeuse, the girdle of which was composed of orange blossoms, while exquisite old rose point Brussels lace, which had adorned the bride's mother's wedding dress and also her grandmother's, was gracefully draped on the skirt, falling in cascades from the sides. She also wore the conventional veil, which was crowned with a band of orange blossoms, and carried a lovely bouquet of pale cream roses and maidenhair fern. The only ornament which the bride wore was a pair of earrings, the gift of the groom, which were diamonds with sapphire points, set in platinum.

The bride was given in marriage by her mother, Mrs. Oliver, gowned in black, with a black picture hat, trimmed with black and white ospreys; while little Miss Sheila Gillespie, niece of the groom, attended the bride as bridesmaid, and wore a dainty frock of pongee silk, with sash of burnt orange color, her straw hat, trimmed with the same shade, being turned back from her face. She, also, carried a shower bouquet of various shades of wild honeysuckle, and wore the gift of the groom, a crescent and clover leaf pin set in pearls. Mr. Sholto Gillespie, brother of the groom, acted as best man.

The church, which had been decorated by friends of the bride, was exceptionally pretty with a profusion of pale pink and white peonies and white foxgloves. The arch over the chancel steps, under which the bride and groom stood at the commencement of the service, was composed entirely of white roses.

The wedding had taken place from the Summer cottage of Mrs. B. Fearse, at Shoal Bay, and after the ceremony the bridal party and the few friends who were present, returned to the cottage, which had been lent to the bride for the day, for the wedding breakfast. Mrs. Dugald Gillespie and Mrs. H. G. Lawson had decorated the rooms with masses of pink and white blooms, and a veritable bower of Summer flowers made a charming background for the reception. Mr. William Ward, grandfather of the bride, and Mr. and Mrs. George Gillespie assisted Mr. and Mrs. Erroll Gillespie in receiving the guests, Mrs. Gillespie wearing a handsome grey brocade dress and black picture hat with ostrich feathers.

Following the reception, Mr. and Mrs. Erroll Gillespie left for a honeymoon, which will be spent on a motoring trip of the Island, and on their return will make their home in Victoria.

GARDEN PARTY AT GARDEN CITY HOME

Affair Under Auspices of Women's Institute Proves Successful—Wife of Reeve Opens Grounds

The garden party held by the Garden City Woman's Institute yesterday afternoon and evening at the home of Mrs. Harrison, on Jasmine Avenue, was well attended and a considerable sum was realised for the Institute's building fund.

Mrs. Watson, wife of the Reeve of Saanich, opened the grounds to the public in a short speech, after which she was presented with a beautiful bouquet of sweet peas by Miss Fay Stansfeld. Mrs. Watson was accompanied by the Reeve and their two daughters. Mr. F. A. Pauline, M.P.P., and party, visited the garden party during the afternoon.

The stalls were beautifully decorated and set among the trees. Tennis Aunt Sally, the shooting gallery and the ice cream stall proved popular. Curiosity was shown over the identity of Eg Nar Wei Sing, fortune teller.

In the evening a community sing was held, with Mr. Veale conducting and Mrs. Harrison accompanying.

The stallholders were as follows: Candy, Mrs. Smith; home cooking, Mrs. Lamborn and Mrs. Stacey; flowers, Mrs. Lawrence; superfluities, Mrs. Chambers; Aunt Sally, Dick Harrison; shooting gallery, Lionel Harrison.

TELLS DYSPEPTICS WHAT TO EAT

Avoid Indigestion, Sour Acid Stomach, Heartburn, Gas On Stomach, Etc.

Indigestion and practically all forms of stomach trouble, say medical authorities, are due nine times out of ten to an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach. Chronic "acid stomach" is exceedingly dangerous and sufferers should do either one of two things.

Either they can go on a limited and often disagreeable diet, avoiding foods that disagree with them, that irritate the stomach and lead to excess acid secretion, or they can eat as they please in reason and make it a practice to counteract the effect of the harmful acid and prevent the formation of gas, sourness or premature fermentation by the use of a little Bisurated Magnesia at their meals.

There is probably no better, safer or more reliable stomach antacid than Bisurated Magnesia and it is widely used for this purpose. It has no direct action on the stomach and is not a digestant. But a teaspoonful of the powder or a couple of five grain tablets taken in a little water with the food will neutralize the excess acidity which may be present and prevent its further formation. This removes the whole cause of the trouble and the meal digests naturally and healthfully without need of pepsin pills or artificial digestants.

Get a few ounces of Bisurated Magnesia from any reliable druggist. Ask for either powder or tablets. It never comes as a liquid, milk or citrate, and in the bisurated form is not a laxative. Try this plan and eat what you want at your next meal and see if this isn't the best advice you ever had on "what to eat." (Advt.)

CLOSING EXERCISES AT ORIENTAL SCHOOL

The kindergarten room of the Oriental Home and School, on Cormorant Street, was filled to capacity yesterday afternoon with interested spectators who came to see the closing exercises, carried out by the Japanese and Chinese children under the direction of Miss Grace V. Baker, M.A., assisted by Miss Henderson, who is in charge of the afternoon kindergarten, and by Miss Annie Nakabyashi, the teacher of the regular day school in connection with the Home.

The very comprehensive programme opened with a pretty little welcome song by the children, followed by the devotional part of the programme, which included several sacred songs, the children's prayer, and a Bible story drill. The seasons were represented by the little folk in illustrated songs, and a new version of Jack and Jill drew forth hearty applause from the visitors, who were also greatly entertained by the two selections given by the Toy Symphony Band. The drill in physics and number work elicited much well-merited admiration, as did also the recitation given by two of Miss Nakabyashi's pupils. Representations of "The Crooked Man," "Bah, Bah, Black Sheep," and "Humpty Dumpty," those universal favorites of childhood, were given by the children, and were much enjoyed by all present, as was the marching and skipping games, and the flag drill. The presentation of kindergarten diplomas to ten of the children brought to a close a most interesting and enjoyable programme, after which the Mizpah benediction was repeated.

Among those present were the Rev. Mr. Sharpe, of Nova Scotia, who expressed to the teachers the appreciation of the visitors of the fine entertainment; Mrs. Sharpe, of the Advisory Board of the W. M. S.; Mrs. Abell, the past district superintendent; the Misses Oliver and Miss Deane, the ladies of the Wilkinson Road W. M. S., Rev. and Mrs. Nakanishi, Mr. and Mrs. Ishi, and the parents and friends of the children, as well as three of the missionary workers of the Home: Miss Martin, the superintendent; Mrs. J. Wilkinson and Miss Ide.

KEARNS STEPS IN TO BOOST DEMPSEY

Meeting With Manager Was Turning Point in Champion's Career — Descamps Was Helping Carpentier

After the disappointing Eastern trip, Dempsey returned to his home in Salt Lake City and fought one or two inconsequential battles, of which no notice was taken. He again was noticed, however, when Jim Flynn, one of the best second-raters among the heavyweights, knocked him out in one round at Salt Lake City.

Discouraged, Dempsey went to San Francisco to pick up what matches he could. Here it was that he met Jack Kearns a good judge of boxers who saw in Dempsey certain promise. It was under the guidance of Kearns that the future heavyweight champion fought several battles in and around San Francisco before the end of the year. He defeated Willy Meehan, Bob McAllister, Gunboat Smith and Carl Morris, all mediocre but crafty heavyweights, in four round bouts. Meehan, in another engagement, held Dempsey to a draw at the same distance.

A Shrewd Manager

These results were satisfactory to Kearns, who sought only to give his charge the proper ring experience before introducing him to the East. Kearns is one of the shrewdest "showmen" in boxing, and he prepared for the invasion of the Middle West and the East with scrupulous care, seeing in this rough and-ready Utah product a very satisfactory "meal ticket" for the future.

When Dempsey, from training and boxing with men who knew every twist and turn in the game, had absorbed considerable experience, Kearns adjudged him ready for another invasion of the East, this time under more expert supervision.

The trip was a triumph from the start. Dempsey literally fought his way across the continent. Boxing at least once, sometimes twice, a week, in cities of varying sizes, he hung up a great record. "Fireman" Jim Flynn, Bill Brennam, Arthur Pelkey, Fred Fulton, Porky Flynn and Battling Levinsky were among the victims. The only reverse decision registered against him during the year was a four round bout on the Coast in which Willy Meehen beat Dempsey on points.

Turned the Tables

The second battle with "Fireman" Jim Flynn was one of the early bouts of the trip. It was staged in a western town, and Dempsey knocked out Flynn in the first round, thus avenging the earlier one round defeat at the hands of the veteran.

An anecdote concerning that battle shows the confidence which Kearns already had acquired in his new charge. Flynn's manager, believing that Dempsey again would be an easy victim, offered to wager Kearns an amount on the result. Kearns was willing to wager, not only on the result, but bet that Dempsey would win in one round. The outcome proved the correctness of his calculations.

Carpentier Develops

Carpentier quickly developed in physical strength and weight, as well as in boxing skill, in 1910 and 1911. Descamps kept him busy during 1910, and although he met no opponents of exceptional class, he learned rapidly all the time. Four knockouts, six victories, one by a foul, two draws and two defeats, adorned his record during that year. Two youths, Buck Shine and Young Snowball were credited with victories over him.

By this time, Carpentier was a full-fledged lightweight, and, early in 1911, graduated into the welterweight division. His first important battle in this class was with Frank Loughrey, an American, in May, 1911. The contest was fought in Paris as a preliminary to the Dixie Kid-Young "Tommy" Loughrey contest.

First American Opponent

Carpentier received the decision over his first American opponent in 15 rounds of torrid boxing. The exhibition of Carpentier was one of the best of his early fighting and marked only the first of a long series of hot battles the French athlete was to have with American boxers.

The battle with Loughrey in 1911 sent Carpentier into "fast company" in boxing. From that time on, he was a participant in main bouts in France and England, instead of preliminary contests. He knocked out Jack Goldswain and defeated Evernden and Young Josephs, winning the British welterweight championship.

Two bouts with leading American welterweights were fought before the close of 1911. In one, Carpentier was victorious over Harry Lewis in 20 rounds. In the other, the Dixie Kid, remembered in this country as one of the most furious two-handed welterweights the ring has seen, beat the Frenchman in a five round bout. Henry Piet, in 10 rounds, scored the other victory marked up against Carpentier in 1911.

Despite his losing to the Dixie Kid, the year, bringing the British welterweight title to Carpentier, had been the most successful experienced by Georges, and he was even more successful in 1912, when he encountered for the first time, middleweights of the first class.

Touring Footballers Delight Huge Crowd

Stadium Packed When Scotties Gave Wonderful Exhibition of Soccer Game—Victoria Made Plucky Fight, But Had to Acknowledge Defeat by Four to One

The honor of being the first Canadian team to win from the touring Scottish footballers still remains to be claimed. Victoria's best met the far-famed professionals yesterday evening at the Stadium, and retired from the field with the score four goals to one against them. They were beaten, but by no means disgraced, as they put up a very good fight and at times made the Scotsmen do their utmost, although in the latter stages of the game the visitors appeared to be taking things rather easier than they might have done. Victoria's lone goal was scored from a free kick just outside the penalty area without any attempt being made to stop the shot taken by Archie Muir.

As a match, there was little to it; as a revelation to those who have never seen first-class soccer played, there was a great deal to it, and the work of the professionals must have been a very valuable lesson to those players who were pitted against them and to the crowd of others who watched the play from the packed stands, the side lines or the top of the fences all round the field.

Wilson Opens Scoring

It was just fifteen minutes when Wilson scored the first goal with an easy shot taken from Lowe's pass from outside left. Twenty minutes passed before the Scots, who were evidently trying their hardest at this stage of the game, notched their second goal, Jimmy Gordon, the half-back, netting the ball with a beautiful long shot. Five minutes later Rankin made it three to nil, where the score remained until half-time. Just before the whistle went for the interval Victoria was awarded a penalty kick, Brownlie, the visiting goalie, taking too many steps with the ball in the referee's opinion. Archie Muir was entrusted with the shot, but the burly goalie outguessed him and smothered it.

The Victoria boys held the experts for thirty-four minutes in the second half, and, in the meanwhile, had saved the whitewash by the successful shot from the free kick which was awarded for what looked from the stand to be a perfectly fair shoulder charge of Petticrew by a Scot. Thompson scored the only other goal of the match ten minutes from full time.

Perfect Combination

It was perfectly obvious within a few minutes of the start of the game wherein lay the great superiority of the visitors. Combination brought to practical perfection and almost uncanny skill in controlling the ball. Hardly a pass which did not go straight to its mark without any unnecessary energy lost, and there always seemed someone to pass it to, because every man knew his place and played it. Never was a man flurried, or indeed hurried, any more than was necessary to beat his man. Brownlie gave a fine exhibition of goal tending, a statement which shows that the Victoria attack was at least good enough to give him the chance to do so more than once. He had no time to go to sleep on the job. He objected to the decision of the referee which gave the penalty kick against him, but delighted the crowd with the tricky way in which he outguessed Archie Muir.

Wilson, the great little centre forward, showed in the early stages of the game that the advance reports of his magical skill in disposing of a soccer ball had not been exaggerated, but he had not his shooting eye with him yesterday, and was frequently sending shots high over the bar in the second period.

Jimmy Was There

On the home side Jimmy Allan was easily the best man on the team, though Bob Whyte should certainly be mentioned for the way in which he many times beat the crack forwards of the opposing team. Archie Muir was out of his place and did not show up to his best advantage. Petticrew played a good game and was there with the speed, but he was not good enough to get through a defence of the calibre that was against him last night. Munro worked hard and showed that he had a good knowledge of the game, and, taken all in all, the Victoria defence showed to better advantage than their attacking force, whose long passing style was fruitless against such opponents. Shrimpton was sound in goal.

Some of the best work of the Victoria side was done quite in the early stages of the game. Totty, by the way, had the honor of sending in the first shot of the match, but it went wide, and, shortly after, Bob Whyte showed up well, beating the Scottish outside left more than once with some tricky defence play. Bridges and Brewster also were doing well, having good control of the ball and making accurate passes. The first shot from the Scottish side came from Lowe's boot, a beauty which just missed the corner of the net, but which probably would have been saved by Shrimpton had it been just inside instead of just outside. The Scottish goal seemed to be in danger a few minutes afterwards, chiefly owing to some good work by Brewster, but the defence made no mistakes and the ball was speedily sent to the opposite end of the field.

The Scottish were getting into their stride and it was not long before Wilson had opened the scoring after Lowe had beaten all opposition and sent the ball to his feet right in front of the goal.

Used Their Heads

The Scottish forwards were quickly giving an exhibition of how to get results without any misdirected energy, and the way in which they juggled the ball with their feet and passed to and fro at short range, always beating their man by doing the unexpected, began to rattle the Victoria players, whose play fell off for a while. Lowe, the outside left, was particularly active in this period, being left unmarked most of the time, and he just missed scoring soon after with a hard left foot drive. Shrimpton was kept fairly busy and doing his work in good style, but it was a real beauty which beat him when Jimmy Gordon scored with his long shot low on the left.

Victoria stayed with it in good shape, and they had the ball at Scotland's end for a considerable time, during which they were awarded two corner kicks in quick succession. Petticrew was playing good football, and Brownlie really did have to show the crowd how to save a hot one from the Victoria centre forward's boot. Just before the half time whistle went, Brownlie was very hard pressed, and it was then that the penalty kick was awarded to Victoria.

Not So Eventful

The second half of the game was less eventful. Shrimpton showed that he knows how to keep goal in first class company, and saved three good ones early in the proceedings after the interval, and Victoria for the first half of this period was holding the visitors well, having lost any stage fright which may have been handicapping them at the start. Both teams appeared to be somewhat tired when the period was about half through, and the Scotties were undoubtedly taking things very easily for the remainder of the game, but they were always in the way when the Victoria attack got too pressing and their passing was just as uncannily accurate. Wilson had a number of shots at goal in the later stages of the game, but they were going high enough for Rugby goals.

Premier Oliver kicked off and a truly Scottish atmosphere was given to the proceedings by the skirl of the pipes of the 16th Canadian Scottish pipe band.

Five homers were made in Philadelphia by the Athletics and Washington in a fifteen-inning contest. The sluggers were Gharrity and Miller, of the Senators, and Galloway, Welsh and Perkins, of the Athletics. The other American League home-run hitters were Pennock, of Boston, and Hawks, of New York.

Three Boston National League batsmen made homers against New York — Nicholson, Boeckel and Gowdy. Three were hit in the first Chicago-St. Louis game and one in the second. The hitters were Flack, of the Cubs, and Smith, Hornsby and Fournier, of St. Louis.

PLAN "B.C. WEEK" TO ADVERTISE PROVINCE

Victoria and Vancouver Publicity Organizations Wait on Premier to Enlist Government's Aid

Joint actions by the cities and various publicity and other organizations throughout the Province in one grand movement to spread abroad the attractions of British Columbia from the scenic and other standpoints throughout the medium of a "British Columbia Week" is planned. In that week, it is proposed, British Columbians, individually as well as through various public organizations, will be called upon to communicate with their friends, business connections, etc., outside the Province, sending them publicity matter descriptive of this Province's beauties and advantages as a tourist resort as well as a permanent place of abode.

The scheme was placed before Premier Oliver yesterday. A delegation representing the Vancouver Island Development Association and the publicity bureau of the Vancouver Board of Trade waited upon the Premier and suggested that the Government should, by proclamation, set aside some week to be known as "British Columbia Week," during the course of which the united co-operation of all would be directed to the propaganda suggested. In such manner, it was urged, the attention of the outside world would be attracted to this Province and many people brought here and thus have a chance to study the opportunities existing in British Columbia.

International Polo Is Won by Americans

INTERNATIONAL POLO WON BY AMERICANS

Second Victory by Ten to Six Gives Them the Trophy—Superior Teamwork Carried the Day

HURLINGHAM POLO FIELD, London, June 22.—America's polo quartette, smashing through the English defence, won the final game of the international series today by ten goals to six, and earned the right to carry back to the United States the international challenge trophy, taken from America by the British in 1914.

The American victory in the eighth international cup competition came in two straight matches. The first match went to America with comparative ease last Saturday.

Today's game was no walkover, although the Americans got away brilliantly to a three-goal lead in the first chukker, the British rallying strongly about the middle of the match and drawing near to the Americans.

The trophy was bought by subscription by the Westchester Polo Club of Newport in 1886, and by agreement was recognized in 1913 as the world's polo championship cup for teams of four. The Americans have now achieved their fourth triumph, evening the score with the British.

In the third chukker today Louis Stoddard, No. 1, in scoring the fifth American goal, knocked down Fresham Gilbey, an umpire. Gilbey's head was badly cut, and the game was halted while the injured man was removed. J. Watson Webb, No. 3 for America, cut a finger on his playing hand, the left, in the fourth period and "time out" was called while the injury was being dressed. Webb, however, returned to the game.

After the match, the spectators, numbering nearly 10,500, crowded about the victorious Americans, extending congratulations to Captain Devereaux Milburn and his mates.

The Americans started with a dash and energy which seemed to unsettle the Britishers' game. The challengers teamwork and hitting was markedly superior to that of the British.

Then the Britishers' style became much improved, until in the fifth period, which ended with the Americans leading by two goals, it looked as though it might be anyone's game. The British spurt ended in the sixth chukker, however, when both teams seemed to slow up. The British repeatedly had the ball on the goal line, but failed on critical shots.

Presentation of the cup probably will be made Saturday.

The Britishers' faulty stickwork lost them a number of goals.

Stoddard and Webb distinguished themselves, and Lord Wodehouse, No. 3, and Lieut.-Col. H. A. Tompkinson, No. 1, did exceptional work for the cup defenders.

TEAM SELECTED FOR SATURDAY'S MATCH

Victoria Will Have Strong Side Out Against the Five C's —Special Refreshment Arrangements

The lady supporters of the Five C's have kindly consented to serve the tea at the Jubilee Hospital Grounds on Saturday on the occasion of the cricket match between the Victoria Club and the Five C's. The committee to handle the arrangements are as follows: Mesdames Edwards, Booth, Sutton, Beeston and Miss Hamil.

It is expected that the ladies will have a big undertaking as, besides providing tea for the players, the general public will be served at a small charge, the proceeds of which will be devoted to support the clubs. No interval will be allowed the players, so that the public will not have to endure any long and tedious waits whilst the players refresh themselves.

Victoria Eleven

The Victoria eleven has now been selected and reads as follows: Messrs. H. A. Geward, (captain), Captain Coley, S. M. Gillespie, D. L. Gillespie, J. H. Gillespie, L. S. V. York, W. A. McAdam, H. A. Tomalin, J. V. Murphy, J. R. Matson and F. J. Marshall. All these players are earnestly requested to turn out to practice tonight at the Jubilee Hospital grounds at 5 o'clock.

After a blank Saturday last week, as far as league matches are concerned, it is expected that a large attendance will turn out on Saturday. The officials of both clubs are making arrangements for the preparation of a good wicket, and also for seating accommodation for the public. The marquee will be erected upon the far side of the pavilion, so as not to interfere with the eye of the batsmen, as was the case when the Incog-Victoria game was in process.

MATCHES ARE CLOSE AT WILLOWS COURTS

Several Hard Fought Games Feature Yesterday's Play in the Victoria Tennis Club's Tournament

Good progress was again made yesterday in the Victoria Lawn Tennis Club's handicap tournament, and a number of hard-fought matches were decided. One of the most interesting matches was that in which Neirn Robertson made a game fight against H. T. Garrett in the men's singles. At one time he looked like winning one set, the game being 5 to 2 in his favor, but the steady play and hard hitting of his opponent eventually won out.

Two herd games were also seen in the ladies' doubles, in which Miss Tayler and Miss Camsusa beat Mrs. Garrett and Mrs. Gillespie, and Miss Turner and Miss Scott beat Miss Fox and Miss Wilson. Bone, in the men's singles, gave Jackson a hard fight for three sets, and in the men's doubles Leeming and Idiens were taken to 7-5 in each of the two sets in which they beat Edwards and H. T. Matson.

TEST MATCH REFLECTIONS

By S. H. P. in London Times

The Test Match that was lost in twenty minutes; that, in brief, is a true description of the dismal game at Trent Bridge. From the time that Mr. Knight, Ernest Tyldesley, and Hendren fell to Mr. Gregory's fast bowling with the score at eighteen, England always looked a beaten side. From the disastrous start there was no recovery. The Australians always had the upper hand, and it was impossible for even the most sanguine amongst us to feel hopeful of defeat being avoided. In a long experience of Test Matches, dating back indeed to the first one in this country at the Oval in 1880, I have never seen an England eleven so completely outplayed. Even at Lord's, in 1899 and 1909, when we were very badly beaten, our men did not seem so inferior to their opponents. The accident to Tyldesley and the unhappy run-out that ended Mr. Knight's innings made the defeat more overwhelming then it otherwise might have been, but I cannot think that these misfortunes affected the result. A lead of 120 on the first innings was a winning advantage. The wicket recovered from the rain so well that in order to have a chance we should have had to make a very big score.

Facing the Facts

It is best to face the facts, no matter how unpleasant they may be. From the English point of view the match, apart from Strudwick's wicket keeping, was utterly disappointing. In batting, bowling, and fielding alike our players fell far below the Australian standard. Our bowling on Saturday afternoon was quite good, without having any real sting in it, but I was very disappointed with Woolley and Rhodes on Monday morning. They could not keep the length one expects from them, bowling too many balls that asked to be hit to the boundary. As regards the fielding, inferiority was inevitable. Our men were seldom at fault, but playing together for the first time they could not hope to compare with a highly organized side, composed of players closely associated since last December and flushed with repeated victories. The Australians have never been so rich in brilliant fieldsmen—Mr. Pellew, for one, is a marvel, and the placing of the field for all the bowlers is perfect.

The presence at the Test Match at Trent Bridge of the veteran bowler, George Wootton—able in his 57th year to enjoy watching the game—made one think of the change that has come over Nottinghamshire cricket since he played for the county. In Wootton's day, and for some time afterwards, Notts sent young bowlers to all parts of the country. It was quite impossible to find room in one team for all the talent available. To give one example out of many, William McIntyre, not being quite good enough to keep an assured place on the side, sought fortune elsewhere and became one of the mainstays of the Lancashire eleven, sharing the bowling with Alec Watson and Mr. Appleby, and never missing a match for eight seasons—1873 to 1879. Today, when the Nottinghamshire bowling depends wholly on Richmond and Barratt, such a bowler as William McIntyre would have no need to leave his native county in search of a career. Extra inducements would be offered him to stay at home.

Altered Conditions

Alfred Shaw, who grew up in the times of plenty, and could speak on the subject with the fullest knowledge and authority, once told me that the altered state of things was brought about almost entirely by industrial conditions, the change from home to factory labor in the hosiery trade making an enormous difference. The men took their work home, did it when they liked, and found ample time to play cricket. Hence the supply of young players that could be found year after year for the Colts' match at Trent Bridge on Easter Monday. Now and again a Colt was discovered obviously fit, with a little experience, for the county eleven, and for many—mostly bowlers—not quite up to the requisite standard, engagements were easily obtained outside Nottinghamshire. It is to the collieries, not to the hosiery trade, that the committee have chiefly to look now for fresh talent. I was told this week that five members of the present team were miners.

Somerset Dialects

The inhabitants of the eastern part of Somerset speak a dialect so different from that spoken by those who dwell in the western part that a man from the east side would have a decided difficulty in understanding a man from the west side of the Parrett. The dialect of the east is much the same as that of Wiltshire, Hampshire, Berkshire, but the dialect of the west resembles that of the County of Devon. It is often said, by the way, that a Somerset man turns every s into z and every f into v. But this is only true with words of Saxon origin. Thus sead is changed into zeed, and fan into van. But serpent always keeps the sharps, and family its sharp f.

Broad Street and Congos Are the Successful Clubs, Each Winning Its Match by Large Margin

Broad Street and Congos were the winning teams in yesterday's Wednesday League cricket fixtures, each winning by a large margin after totaling a heavy score. The match between Broad Street and Spencer's was played on the Albion ground at the Willows. Smith won the toss for Spencer's and put the Broad Street men in to bat. They hit up the big score of 153.

Gardiler hit out lustily for 56 runs and he was well supported by Cowan, Richardson, Silburn and Ackroyd, the latter carrying his bat for fifteen. The best Spencer's could do in reply was to make 43, Cowan, Richardson and Gardier sharing the bowling honors for Broad Street and Smith being the only man to reach double figures for Spencer's. HARTMAN AND GRECO OFF BEAVERS' ROLL

VANCOUVER, June 22.—Pitcher Al Hartman and Outfielder Greco, of the Beavers, were released yesterday, President Bob Brown, of the Vancouver club, announced today. Hartman has been with the club since the start of the season, holding down the utility job, but his work has only been fair, and with the signing of Pitcher Jimmy Marquis it was necessary to lop off a couple of heads to get within the player limit, and Al and Greco drew the blue envelopes.

Put His Foot in It

At a dinner a young man, whose chief claims to distinction seemed to be an eyeglass and a drawl, said to a man near him:

"Beastly nuisance, isn't it? Spoke to that fellah over there—took him for a gentleman, and found he had a ribbon in his coat. The confounded head waiter, I suppose?"

"Oh, no," replied the other; "that is the guest of the evening!"

"Hang it all, is it?" said the other. "Look here, old chap — would you mind sitting next to me at dinner and telling me who's who?"

"I would do so with pleasure," was the reply; "but, you see, I'm the 'confounded head waiter'!"—London Tit-Bits.

DEMONSTRATING ON GERMAN WARSHIPS

Bombarding old German warships in order to discover the best way of building new British warships is an exciting sort of job. It is being consistently done just now, for only by this means can these ships be forced to reveal our late enemy's naval construction secrets.

From the manner in which it is carried out the bombarding resembles somewhat a one-sided naval battle, fought to order, and with the shells "planked" just where you want them. A real battle under similar conditions would be a pretty disastrous affair to the side shot at, for one of the objectives usually sought is to ascertain how the greatest number of men can be killed by a minimum expenditure of ammunition.

Real live sailors cannot be put in ships to be thus experimented upon, so substitutes have to be devised. When the effects of powder fumes and concussion were being investigated I have known live sheep, and even caged rats, to be shut up in the compartments fired at.

After a specified number of rounds had been "loosed off" the live stock were examined, and from their condition was deduced the effect that a similar experience would have had upon human beings.

If the object of the firing is to demonstrate the number of casualties a particular kind of shell is likely to inflict upon a gun's crew under given conditions, wooden figures are used to represent the gunners. These dummies are grouped around the gun in the positions which the various "numbers" working it would occupy, and the firing starts.

After each round the "target" is boarded and the damage done to her is examined in detail. Measurements, photographs, and other records are taken with meticulous care.

Anyone who then accompanies the "recording party" on board the target ship gets a vivid illustration of the destructive effects of the modern big gun. Usually the dummies are knocked all ways and some of them are ripped into splinters. It makes one shiver to think of the sight which would be presented had these "casualties" been flesh and blood men instead of painted wooden figures.

Probably not more than three or four shots will be fired in a whole day. But the data going up to the Admiralty reveal much that was previously unknown and have an important influence on the design of all new warships.

Incriminating Evidence

An amusing incident in the career of the late Chief Justice White is related in The New York Times. As a young lawyer he was called upon to defend a man who was accused of stealing a pair of "pants." The man was seated with his legs under a large table, when Mr. White sat down and asked him something about the case. The man was most reticent. Finally the lawyer for the other side called the accused to take the stand. The prisoner turned to Mr. White and said:

"Jedge, I don't want to take the stand."

"Why not?" asked Mr. White. "You are perfectly innocent, aren't you?"

"Yes, sir, I'se perfectly innocent as long as I sit with my feet under dis table, but if I get up on the stand—oh Lord, jedge, the trouble is I'se got them pants on!"

Captain Fryatt's Ship Again to Sail the Seas

Bomb-Shattered Wreck of Steamer Brussels Reassuming Former Lines—Raised From Zeebrugge Harbor After Two Years Beneath Surface—Captured Five Years Ago Today

The herculean task of converting "Captain Fryatt's ship," long a bomb-shattered wreck on the bottom of Zeebrugge harbor, into an efficient unit of the British mercantile marine is now well under way. Few repair jobs have excited such widespread interest and attention, although bigger ones there certainly have been.

The Brussels is a vessel whose name will long survive in the annals of British history. Prior to the war she was a splendid example of the railway passenger steamer linking England to the continent. The high reputation of her commander, Capt. Fryatt, enhanced her popularity still further.

When war was declared she continued in the North Sea service, and it was on March 28, 1916, that her intrepid commander found himself at close quarters, in the vicinity of the Maas lightship, with a German submarine—U-33. The prow of the Brussels was headed at once straight for the piratical craft, and but for her quickness in submerging, she would have been rammed and sunk. Although the British steamer escaped on this occasion, she was captured by enemy war vessels on June 23, five years ago today. On July 27 her commander was shot.

Two Years Under Water

When the Germans evacuated Zeebrugge towards the end of the war, the Brussels was sunk in the harbor with bombs, remaining beneath the surface for two years. Then she was raised and passed into the ownership of the Dublin & Lancashire Steamship Company, who decided that she should be used in the cross-channel passenger and cattle trade. When tenders were invited, Dutch and Belgian firms sent in estimates. In the face of that competition it was gratifying that the contract for the repair of a vessel whose name is writ large in the annals of British shipping should be secured by Messrs. Henry Robb, of Leith, and the task of restoring her to her pristine efficiency assigned to British workmen.

Incredible Chaos

It seems almost incredible that out of the general chaos will emerge a rejuvenated Brussels which will be a pride to her owners and a credit to the firm who have undertaken her restoration. It was only when the vessel was drydocked in the Edinburgh Drydock, and opened out, that the extent of the damage both by explosions and grounding could be ascertained. Before sinking the vessel it appears that the Germans placed three bombs in her, that in the engineroom completely wrecking the structure in the vicinity of the starboard side, and all the auxiliary machinery on the same side. Another bomb placed in the after stokehold considerably damaged the structure of the vessel there and distorted everything in the vicinity. Another bomb placed in the forward stokehold completely wrecked the bulkhead at the forward part of the stokehold, the whole of the boiler fittings, smoke boxes, etc., in these parts being completely wrecked.

When the vessel sank very considerable damage was done to the ship's bottom, the whole of the bottom, extending 80 feet, or a third of the vessel's length, in the way of engine and boiler space, being completely set up, and this, of course, will have to be renewed. In the after part of the ship the whole of the lower decks were completely burst, up by water and air pressure, and the lower decks forward suffered in the same way. The whole of the superstructure is also more or less damaged, evidently due to sinking and collision. The foremast was carried away, and the funnels and the deck were more or less twisted and distorted. The task of restoration, too, is rendered more difficult by the fact that owing to the vessel lying so long under water her bilges were completely filled up with clay and mud which had silted into the ship during her years of immersion. Work, however, is now proceeding apace, and in the competent hands of Messrs. Robb, it will not be long before the Brussels will again be an ornament to the flag to which she has been happily restored.

LIFE WAS A BURDEN STATES MRS. BOYER

Vancouver Woman Was in Wretched Condition From Indigestion — Feels Fine Now.

"No reasonable person could ask for more than what Taniac did for me," said Mrs. Eliza Boyer, 704 Seventh Ave., West, Vancouver, B.C.

"Two years ago when I began taking Taniac I was in a wretched condition from stomach trouble, and no matter how careful I was about what I ate I was sure to suffer distress after eating. I had lost almost all my strength and energy, and was feeling so weak and listless that life was a burden to me.

"Taniac gave me an appetite and soothed my stomach so that nothing disagrees with me. My nerves have quieted down and I am able to sleep like a child every night. These good effects have continued for two years. Recently, however, I had a few run-down symptoms, so I began taking my old stand-by and it is building me up again just like it did before. There is something about Taniac that seems to give new life and strength with every dose. It has saved me a world of suffering, and I feel I owe a debt of gratitude for the good it has done me that I can never repay."

Taniac is sold in Victoria by Duncan E. Campbell and leading druggists. (Advt.)

QUEEN MAKES PORT AT SAN FRANCISCO

SAN FRANCISCO, June 22.—The steamer Queen, of the Pacific steamship Company, arrived in port under her own power today, having become disabled off the Oregon coast. She was given a tow by the lumber schooner Johanna Smith until she could effect repairs. The trouble was caused by a broken feed pipe.

JAPANESE LINER DELAYED ONE DAY

Fushimi Maru, Leaving Yokohama Late, Will Dock Here Dominion Day—321 Passengers Aboard Vessel

Leaving Yokohama one day late in her schedule, the Nippon Yusen Kaisha liner Fushimi Maru, Capt. R. Shimidzu, is en route across the Pacific and is expected to reach Victoria en route for Seattle July 1. She has a total of ninety first cabin, thirty-one second cabin and 200 steerage passengers for both Victoria and Seattle.

Among her passengers, according to cable advices, is Katsuyama, who is to assume the duties of manager of the New York offices of the company, succeeding M. Otani, transferred to the London offices. She also has a full cargo of freight.

The steamship Suwa Maru, Capt. M. Machida, will sail for the Orient Friday, and while she will take out a full cargo of freight, she is booked light as to passengers. Among those going to the Orient aboard this liner are Miss Alice Penthiel and Miss Jeanette O'Rourke, Seattle school teachers, who are to make the round trip on the vessel. Y. Kimura, former agent for the N. Y. K. at Chicago, is also a passenger, he having been transferred to the home office of the company after four years in the United States.

The freighter Delagoa Maru is due June 26, while the freighter Genoa Maru, also in the N. Y. K. service, sailed for the Orient yesterday.

FISHERMEN WILL GET LOW PRICE FOR TUNA

LOS ANGELES HARBOR, Calif., June 22.—Purse seine fishermen in Los Angeles coast waters were today offered $50 a ton for their tuna catches as a maximum price for the season, at an open meeting between owners and fishermen's representatives held here today.

The price last year was in the neighborhood of $225 a ton, but according to President Van Camp, of one of the largest canneries in this district, it is impossible this year to pay that high for fish. Much of last year's pack is said to be still on hand.

No compromise or acceptance was arrived at upon adjournment. Some of the representatives of the fishermen, however, indicated a willingness to accept $70 or $80 a ton, but the canners' representatives asserted $50 as the limit.

Silver State Coming

SAN FRANCISCO, June 22.—The Shipping Board steamer Silver State, allocated to the Pacific Steamship Company for its Seattle-Hongkong run, arrived today from New York. She will leave for Seattle tomorrow from which port she will steam on July 9 for Hongkong.

SPLIT APPEARS IN RANKS OF ENGINEERS

Seattle Men Accept New Wage Scale—California and Oregon Associations Oppose—Conference Ends in Deadlock

SEATTLE, June 22.—Failure of delegates of the Marine Engineers' Beneficial Association from San Francisco, Portland and Astoria, Or., to persuade the Seattle local to reverse its action and reject the new wage arrangement between the National Association and the United States Shipping Board, ended the Pacific Coast conference here in a deadlock, W. B. Jackling, business agent of the Seattle local, announced tonight.

Seattle local of the Marine Engineers' Beneficial Association has accepted the new wage scale and working agreement reached recently by national officers of the association and the Shipping Board officials, when representatives of the San Francisco, Portland, Astoria, Or., and Seattle locals met to discuss the agreement.

Following the announcement of the Seattle local, representatives of the other organizations present began debate on a proposal to accept the agreement "under protest."

SEATTLE, June 22.—Visiting union officials refused to discuss the matter, other than to say they would report back to their organizations for further action. According to Mr. Jackling, the representatives from Portland, Astoria and San Francisco failed in the purpose for which they were sent, that of "talking the Seattle local into rejecting the agreement." It had been hoped, delegates explained, that a compromise might be effected so that the Pacific Coast locals could act as a whole, but after lengthy debate, which made it apparent that the divergence of opinions could not be reconciled, the meeting adjourned.

The time used is Pacific Standard for the 120th Meridian West. It is counted from 0 to 24 hours, from midnight to midnight. The figures for height serve to distinguish High Water from Low Water. Where blanks occur in the tables, the tide rises or falls continuously during two successive tidal periods without turning.

The Height is in feet and tenths of a foot, above the average level of lower Low Water.

Esquimalt—To find the depth of water on the sill of the Drydock at any tide, add 19.6 feet to the height of High Water as above given.

NEW FRENCH LINER MAKES FIRST TRIP

Steamer Paris Brought French Mission to New York En Route to Canada—Carries Eight Classes of Travel

NEW YORK, June 22.—The members of the French mission sent to convey thanks to Canada for her aid during the Great War came on the Paris, the new steamship of the French line, which reached this port today on her maiden voyage.

The Paris had her keel laid prior to the war, but the work was suspended during the period of hostilities.

The new vessel is registered at 33,000 gross tons and is 768 feet long, with a beam of 85 feet. She is equipped to carry 3,240 passengers, provision being made for eight classes of travel ranging from de luxe, for which nine suites have been set aside, the stage of luxe, half luxe, first to mixed class to third class, with cabins and bunks. As in all modern liners, the old-time steerage is eliminated.

Extra precautions for safety are announced in the construction of the ship, including double bottom, watertight steel bulkheads so built that any two of the fourteen will keep the ship afloat.

MASTER OF HARTLAND STICKS TO TESTIMONY

SEATTLE, June 22.—All efforts to shake previous testimony by Capt. John Aiwen, of the freighter West Hartland, yesterday afternoon concerning the position and movements of his ship previous to her collision with the passenger liner Governor, off Port Townsend, April 1, failed. Capt. Aiwen was on the stand before United States supervising inspector Wm. Fisher for nearly four hours.

Capt. Aiwen admitted, under Fisher's cross-examination and Attorney F. W. Reagan's protests, that he had been held responsible for the loss of the Pacific Steamship's liner Umatilla, when she grounded and was subsequently lost on the coast of Japan, December 17, 1918. On that occasion, as in this case, charges of negligence and unskillfulness were preferred by United States inspectors. It was brought out.

Hartland's Speed Questioned

In the cross-examination yesterday afternoon Supervisor Fisher endeavored to show that the speed of the West Hartland was greater than previous testimony had stated. After proving that the freighter had attained a speed of 8.4 knots between Apple Tree Cove and Marrowstone Point on her way up the Sound an effort was made to show the West Hartland attained this speed after leaving Port Townsend up to the time of the collision danger point. Capt. Aiwen maintained that the West Hartland could not have been making more than six knots, and that by resorting to reversed engines after the collision had become evident he had used the best judgment.

Capt. Coffin on Stand

Capt. Everett B. Coffin, master mariner and pilot of Seattle, was a witness for the defence early in the afternoon. Every detail of the events preceding the collision of the two ships, as shown in previous testimony, were clearly stated and illustrated with models on a chart, step by step.

In every instance Capt. Coffin agreed that Capt. Aiwen had acted in accordance with the best traditions and rules of seamanship. He stated that he thought under conditions of the respective speed and position of the vessels that the Governor should have easily swung clear of the collision, as she could manoeuver very fast.

SAILORS TAKE WAGE DISPUTE TO COURT

Left Canadian Carrier at Vancouver—Termed Deserters by C.G.M.M.—Other Government Ships Involved

VANCOUVER, June 22.—A writ is now being prepared against the freighter Canadian Carrier and the C. G. M. M. Ltd., to enforce payment of wages claimed by two sailors, F. Crombie and A. Miller, who left the ship at this port. If it is successful it will have a very important bearing on the crews of three Government steamers that are to go on regular Pacific Coast service shortly.

The two men mentioned were members of the crew of the Canadian Carrier, and shipped at Montreal or Halifax to Boston or any ports between 70 N. Lat. and 60 S. Lat., for a period not exceeding twelve months, to be paid off in the Dominion of Canada. The two sailors, according to the union of the sailors and firemen, contend that as Vancouver is in the Dominion, the men are entitled to quit here. The C. G. M. M. held for the twelve-month period or a return to the home port. The sailors asked the captain for their discharge when the ship arrived here, but were refused. They left the ship, were arrested for being deserters, and were to be tried, but the case was withdrawn in order not to delay the sailing of the Carrier.

Decision in the case will have a bearing on the status of the crews of the Canadian Rover, Canadian Observer and Canadian Farmer, all of which will be on the British Columbia-California run. They are signed on for twelve months and Vancouver seamen's union has been informed that consequently British Columbia crews will not be placed on the vessels.

The seamen believe that if the crews now on the three vessels are made to understand that they are filling jobs to which men of this coast are entitled they will quit if they can legally do so, and thus leave their places open.

HOPE FOR NAVAL TUG NOT YET ABANDONED

WASHINGTON, June 22.—The names of the four officers and forty-nine enlisted men aboard the lost naval tug Conestoga were made public today by Secretary Denby, who said he still refused to abandon hope that the tug or her company would be found. She sailed from Mare Island on March 25 for Samoa, via Pearl Harbor, and no word has been heard from her since, despite a thorough search of Pacific waters.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 22.—Quotations for refined cane sugar at the refineries fell off from $6 to $5.90 a hundredweight today. Beet sugar, refined, dropped 20 cents a hundredweight, to $5.70.

GREAT ANGLER HAS GONE TO REWARD

J. G. Millais in London Times

There has passed away at Perth, at the age of 61 years, Peter Donald Malloch, a name perhaps more familiar to sportsmen in the Highlands than any other. Among fishermen he will be remembered as one who identified himself not only as the most complete exponent of skill with the rod and line, but also as a naturalist who took a scientific interest in the sport and found out the whole life history of trout and salmon by practical method and hard study.

Malloch, although born of humble parentage and possessing little of the advantages of higher education, may be said to have gone further in explaining the life histories both of salmon and trout, and the various foods on which they existed, than any other man. His knowledge of the movements of these fish—and especially the flies and diptera eaten by trout—was immense, and practically evolved a new school of thought in dealing with the preservation and capture of these fish. Whilst others, both scientific naturalists and practical fishermen, were accepting much of the old hearsay which passed as accepted knowledge in the seventies and eighties, Malloch set to work to learn his whole subject ab initio, and took nothing for granted unless he had proved every point by actual experience.

I remember once at Loch Leven he saw rise a new fly of a species he had not hitherto noticed. He had nothing in his book like it, but on his next visit he used his "Corncrake" wing, and I fancy won the Loch Leven championship with it. Curiously enough, this fly only succeeded for a short time, and is now only used occasionally.

Practical Inventions

His mind was as practical as it was inventive, and, though it took many years to evolve and become practical, the best innovation in his trade may be said to be the "Sun and Planet" reel, a fishing reel working a system of cogs by which the line could run out easily with only a slight check when a fish was playing, and yet could be wound up with great swiftness. Moreover, when a fish is running the handle ceases to revolve with the axle, while there is no danger of its catching in any obstruction, often the cause of a sudden break. I often talked over this invention with him in the early eighties, and made many drawings for him, and though I cannot claim any credit for its construction, he was good enough to present me with the first example he made in his workshop, and after 20 years it works as well today. Another clever invention was his "casting reel." By levering the whole reel on a pivot the rod can cast a bait such as a prawn clean across a broad river like the Tay, as the line runs off without a check. Then, when the reel is turned again to the usual position, the line can be wound in slowly and the whole area of the stream worked.

Born over 61 years ago, in the pleasant little village of Almond Bank, near Perth, young Malloch spent his early days in the woods and fishing continuously in the Almond River. Education in his days was neither compulsory nor as complete as it is today, so the boy grew up wild, and had ample opportunity to devote most of his time to what he loved best—Nature. By the time he was twelve he knew all the birds and mammals of the district, and was never happy unless engaged in his favorite pursuits. By the time he was fourteen he was able to stuff birds well, make a rod, and tie flies, but as certain remuneration did not evolve from such things he took to peeling oaks in the woods, at the magnificent sum of twelve shillings a week. He also served a short apprenticeship in the bleach works at Huntingtower.

When he was 18 he came to Perth, and took a room in a back wynd off High Street, and there, assisted by his faithful brother, James, he worked hard to acquire a small business in taxidermy and fishing tackle. It was about this time I first met him, and with congenial tastes we soon became fast friends. I always remember with gratitude that he gave me my first commission—2s. 6d. for a picture of a kingfisher, which, I believe, is still the trade mark of the firm. From humble beginnings Malloch soon progressed, and was able to take a front shop in High Street, where he remained for many years, later adding rod, fly, reel and bird-stuffing establishments at the back. As business progressed in later years he acquired a much finer establishment in Scott Street, where the demands for his materials involved greater responsibilities.

For forty years Malloch worked hard at his business, and with his great knowledge of fish and game he gradually built up a great trade in oil that related to Highland sport. His services were in constant demand both in the letting and buying of Highland estates, the making of new lochs, the creation of salmon pools, and assisting the passage of salmon and sea trout by means of ladders round or through obstructing falls. He improved the rod fishing and increased the rents of proprietors on the Tay by making it into a first-class spring fishing river, and this without derogating from the value of the nets, which he controlled in such a way that both interests were made to pay. But the Tay is only one instance of the numerous enterprises for estate and sport improvements which he carried out, from the Hebrides to Fife, and Dumfries to the Shetlands. There was scarcely a loch or river in Scotland he had not visited and fished.

Skill With the Rod

Of his skill with the rod I could write a book, for having fished with many of the best men in Scotland during the past forty years, I should say he was easily the best angler of his time. Genius is always difficult to explain, but may be summed up in the fact that the super-man excels in every department of his art and yet adds to each a little something extra in the way of originality of his own.

One irate angler, whom I heard abusing Malloch for his apparently incorrect estimate of what he ought to catch, told him to go and try the place. Malloch went, and in the evening I met him in Perth Station struggling to remove nine big salmon. His knowledge of the favorable moment when to fish was unique. One day I walked round Loch Leven and shot a good bag of fifty-six duck and snipe. I was doing well, so wanted to complete the circuit of the loch. We lunched at Duncans Corner, when Malloch suddenly looked up and said the breeze was coming from the east and that I must come to the boat and fish with him. I was reluctant, but gave in as I accepted Malloch's superior judgment. In two drifts to the boathouses the trout rose as I never saw them before or since, and we got forty, with four over 3 lbs. Malloch's best day at Loch Leven was forty-nine trout, 49 lb. There he won the National Angling Club's competition on six occasions, and carried off the championship of Loch Leven four times. Perhaps his best day in Scotland was at Loch More, Sutherland, when he and his son Gilbert, as fine a trout fisher as himself, took 212 lbs. of trout.

Odd-Job Parsons.

A free-lance parson is a clergyman who has no regular work in the way of a curacy or a living, but who lives by taking on odd jobs.

At the present moment the free-lance parson is really better placed than many who are in regular work. I can earn at the present time £8 a week, which is more than the holders of a good many livings in the Church of England are now getting, to say nothing of curates struggling along on £3 or £4 a week.

Moreover, I have none of the usual expenses of a rector or even a curate. On the whole I find my life infinitely more pleasant than when I was the holder of a small living.

My services are in constant demand. At the moment I am booked for Sunday duty for the next four months in different parts of the country.

I get these engagements from vicars or rectors who require to be absent from the parish on certain dates. In pre-war days, £1 is. plus traveling expenses, was the recognised fee for this kind of work, but I can now get £3 3s. a Sunday.

I am always entertained at the house of the squire or principal resident in the district. On such occasions I have enjoyed the most lavish hospitality.

At one house at which I stayed, hot and cold water was laid on in each of the bedrooms; the basins were of the finest porcelain; the water-taps were in silver gilt; the carpet was of woven silk of Persian make—it must have been worth about £1,000. The bedroom suite was of the Louis XV. period, exquisitely inlaid in gold. The bed sheets were of the finest silks.—Answers.

Sherlock Holmes Stories

The Boscombe Valley Mystery

The story thus far:

Holmes and Watson started by train to investigate the Boscombe Valley mystery. Holmes told Watson that Mr. Charles McCarthy was a tenant of Mr. John Turner, the largest landlord proprietor of the region. The men were social equals, both ex-Australians. McCarthy had an eighteen-year-old son, Turner a daughter of the same age. McCarthy had two servants, a man and a girl, and Turner had a large establishment. A day or so before McCarthy and his serving man were out together in the morning and McCarthy said he must hurry as he had an engagement at three. In the afternoon he started out. A little later his son returned from a three-day visit to Bristol, took his gun, and also started out. William Crowder, Turner's gamekeeper, saw McCarthy going toward a pond, Boscombe pool, and his son apparently following him. Turner's lodge-keeper's child a little later came running home crying that she had seen McCarthy and his son quarreling by the pond. She was interrupted by young McCarthy, who rushed up hatless, bloodstained, to say he had found his father dead by the pond. The man was found beaten to death. The son's gun was nearby. He was arrested for the murder.

PART TWO.

"What are they?"

"It appears that his arrest did not take place at once, but after the return to Hatherley Farm. On the inspector of constabulary informing him that he was a prisoner, he remarked that he was not surprised to hear it, and that it was no more than his deserts. This observation of his had the natural effect of removing any traces of doubt which might have remained in the minds of the coroner's jury."

"It was a confession," I ejaculated.

"No, for it was followed by a protestation of innocence."

"Coming on the top of such a damning series of events, it was at least a most suspicious remark."

"On the contrary," said Holmes, "it is the brightest rift which I can at present see in the clouds. However innocent he might be, he could not be such an absolute imbecile as not to see that the circumstances were very black against him. Had he appeared surprised at his own arrest, or feigned indignation at it, I should have looked upon it as highly suspicious, because such surprise or anger would not be natural under the circumstances, and yet might appear to be the best policy to a scheming man. His frank acceptance of the situation marks him as either an innocent man, or else as a man of considerable self-restraint and firmness. As to his remark about his deserts, it was also not unnatural if you consider that he stood beside the dead body of his father, and that there is no doubt that he had that very day so far forgotten his filial duty as to bandy words with him, and even, according to the little girl whose evidence is so important, to raise his hand as if to strike him. The self-reproach and contrition which are displayed in his remark appear to me to be the signs of a healthy mind, rather than of a guilty one."

I shook my head. "Many men have been hanged on far slighter evidence," I remarked.

"So they have. And many men have been wrongfully hanged."

"What is the young man's own account of the matter?"

"It is, I am afraid, not very encouraging to his supporters, though there are one or two points in it which are suggestive. You will find it here, and may read it for yourself."

He picked out from his bundle a copy of the local Herefordshire paper, and having turned down the sheet, he pointed out the paragraph in which the unfortunate young man had given his own statement of what had occurred. I settled myself down in the corner of the carriage, and read it very carefully. It ran in this way:

"Mr. James McCarthy, the only son of the deceased, was then called, and gave evidence as follows: 'I had been away from home for three days at Bristol, and had only just returned upon the morning of last Monday, the third. My father was absent from home at the time of my arrival, and I was informed by the maid that he had driven over to Ross with John Cobb, the groom. Shortly after my return I heard the wheels of his trap in the yard, and, looking out of my window, I saw him get out and walk rapidly out of the yard, though I was not aware in which direction he was going. I then took my gun, and strolled out in the direction of the Boscombe Pool, with the intention of visiting the rabbit-warren which is upon the other side. On my way I saw William Crowder, the gamekeeper, as he had stated in his evidence; but he is mistaken in thinking that I was following my father. I had no idea that he was in front of me. When about a hundred yards from the Pool I heard a cry of "Cooee!" which was a usual signal between my father and myself. I then hurried forward, and found him standing by the Pool. He appeared to be much surprised at seeing me, and asked me rather roughly what I was doing there. A conversation ensued which led to high words, and almost to blows, for my father was a man of a very violent temper. Seeing that his passion was becoming ungovernable, I left him and returned toward Hatherley Farm. I had not gone more than 150 yards, however, when I heard a hideous outcry behind me, which caused me to run back again. I found my father expiring upon the ground, with his head terribly injured. I dropped my gun, and held him in my arms, but he almost instantly expired. I knelt beside him for some minutes, and then made my way to Mr. Turner's lodge-keeper, his house being the nearest, to ask for assistance. I saw no one near my father when I returned, and I have no idea how he came by his injuries. He was not a popular man, being somewhat cold and forbidding in his manners; but he had, as far as I know, no active enemies. I know nothing further of the matter.'

"The Coroner: Did your father make any statement to you before he died?

"Witness: He mumbled a few words, but I could only catch some allusion to a rat.

"The Coroner: What did you understand by that?

"Witness: It conveyed no meaning to me. I thought that he was delirious.

"The Coroner: What was the point upon which you and your father had this final quarrel?

"Witness: I should prefer not to answer.

"The Coroner: I am afraid that I must press it.

"Witness: It is really impossible for me to tell you. I can assure you that it had nothing to do with the sad tragedy which followed.

"The Coroner: That is for the court to decide. I need not point out to you that your refusal to answer will prejudice your case considerably in any future proceedings which may arise.

"Witness: I must still refuse.

"The Coroner: I understand that the cry of 'Cooee' was a common signal between you and your father?

"Witness: It was.

"The Coroner: How was it, then, that he uttered it before he saw you, and before he even knew that you had returned from Bristol?

"Witness (with considerable confusion): I do not know.

"A Juryman: Did you see nothing which aroused your suspicions when you returned on hearing the cry, and found your father fatally injured?

"Witness: Nothing definite.

"The Coroner: What do you mean?

"Witness: I was so disturbed and excited as I rushed out into the open, that I could think of nothing except of my father. Yet I have a vague impression that as I ran forward something lay upon the ground to the left of me. It seemed to me to be something gray in color, a coat of some sort, or a plaid, perhaps. When I rose from my father I looked round for it, but it was gone.

"Do you mean that it disappeared before you went for help?

"Yes, it was gone.'

"You cannot say what it was?'

"No, I had a feeling something was there.'

"How far from the body?'

"A dozen yards or so.'

"And how far from the edge of the wood?'

"About the same.'

"Then if it was removed it was while you were within a dozen yards of it?'

"Yes, but with my back toward it.'

"This concluded the examination of the witness.

"I see," said I, as I glanced down the column, "that the coroner in his concluding remarks was rather severe upon young McCarthy. He calls attention, and with reason, to the discrepancy about his father having signaled to him before seeing him, also to his refusal to give details of his conversation with his father, and his singular account of his father's dying words. They are all, as he remarks, very much against the son."

Holmes laughed softly to himself, and stretched himself out upon the cushioned seat. "Both you and the coroner have been at some pains," said he, "to single out the very strongest points in the young man's favor. Don't you see that you alternately give him credit for having too much imagination and too little. Too little, if he could not invent a cause of quarrel which would give him the sympathy of the jury; too much, if he evolved from his own inner consciousness anything so outre as a dying reference to a rat, and the incident of the vanishing cloth. No, sir, I shall approach the case from the point of view that what this young man says is true, and we shall see whither that hypothesis will lead us. And now here is my pocket Petrarch, and not another word will I say of the case until we are on the scene of action. We lunch at Swindon, and I see that we shall be there in twenty minutes."

Compact Generator.

Partly as a result of developments in connection with aircraft, a marked advance has been made recently in the production of very light and compact petrol-driven electric generators by British firms. As an example, a combined set capable of producing 300 watts weighs only 55 lbs. The engine is air-cooled and is able to give a continuous output of 600 watts if run at 2,500 revolutions per minute instead of at the normal speed of 1,700 revolutions per minute. At a pinch the engine can be safely run up to 3,400 revolutions without undue heating. The set is intended for battery charging and consumes only one-tenth of a gallon of petrol for 300 watt hours. It can also be adapted to produce alternating current for X-ray work and similar requirements.

Economising Petrol.

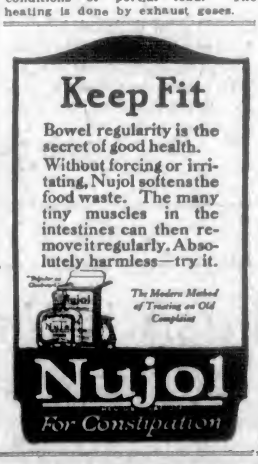

Many devices have been brought out in Great Britain recently for economizing petrol, and conspicuous success has been achieved by one designed to reduce the consumption of this fuel in engines which work for a great part of the time at less than full load—which is the case with motor car engines in general. The economizer, which is automatic in its action and contains only one moving part (an air valve) takes the place of the mixture pipe and can be used in conjunction with any carburetor. It consists of a heating chamber, where the fuel is efficiently vaporised, and air valve to dilute the mixture with heated air to suit all conditions of partial load. The heating is done by exhaust gases.

Tells How Catarrh Is Destroyed Quickly

Catarrh sufferers, meaning those with colds, sore throat, bronchial trouble, etc., can all be fixed up right at home by inhaling "Catarrhosone." In using Catarrhosone you don't take medicine into the stomach—you just breathe a healing, piney vapor direct to the lungs and air passages. The purest balsams and the greatest antiseptics are thus sent to every spot where catarrhal trouble exists—germs are killed, foul secretions are destroyed, Nature is given a chance and the disease ends quickly. Colds and throat troubles can't last if the pure healing vapor of Catarrhosone is breathed—sneezing and coughing cease at once, because irritation is removed, bronchitis, irritation and weakness in the throat soon disappear. Use Catarrhosone whether young or old. Two months' treatment $1.00, small size 50c; dealers everywhere, or The Catarrhosone Co., Montreal. (Advt.)

WOMEN WHO ENJOY SUFFERING

January Mortimer, in Daily Mail

Once I heard a healthy young girl remark to an ailing sister: "I wish I were you. You get all the sympathy!" The desire for sympathy or pity is so strong in some women that they become really ill in order to win it.

Some mothers of this type are perpetual convalescents. They have never outgrown the childish longing for purely self-regarding satisfactions. They are "delicate," and it is the duty of relatives and dependents to wait upon them and lessen their burden of suffering.

Many daughters are the devoted nurses of hysterical and hypochondriacal mothers. They are rarely able to leave the mother's side. Frequently they refuse offers of marriage on the plea that they cannot forsake the invalid mother.

The imaginary invalid is often regarded as a sheer imposter. But very few hypochondriacs consciously and deliberately feign symptoms of illness.

Becoming hysterical is an unconscious process or a dream state. Women who are afraid to leave the house have a very profound reason for their fear, though they cannot give any true explanation of the emotion.

A woman who is dull and bored when her husband is away will develop symptoms that disable her from ordinary duties. The husband returns upon an anxious summons and the wife recovers at once.

This does not prove that the symptoms were fictitious or consciously induced by the patient. The signs of illness are evident to a practised physician, but he cannot find any organic cause.

Headaches are apt to occur suddenly in the woman who uses suffering as a defence against an action or an idea which is intolerable. She is seized with acute pain when a domestic problem or a difference arises.

Such persons have a "defective health conscience." They become ill to escape the strain of life and hard reality, and their suffering arouses the sympathy that they crave.

In cases of long standing the individual usually seeks medical treatment but resists nearly all the efforts of the doctor. If she regained health she would have to renounce the privileges accorded to an invalid. Yet consciously she wishes to become well; otherwise she would not call in the aid of the doctor.

People who seem to enjoy being ill have the trifling aches and pains experienced by the healthy-minded. But the hypochondriac cannot disregard the symptom. She is hypersensitive and her interest is concentrated on a vague internal pain.

It is useless to attempt to banish the desire for suffering by deriding the sufferer. The trouble is real and bodily symptoms can be observed.

There is no method of curing this strange predilection for illness except through a close analysis of the mind. But the tendency to seek pity for slight ailments and pains in childhood can be checked by a wise parent before the craving becomes fixed and habitual.

WASTED MOTHER LOVE

Is there too much mother-love in the world?

Tens of hundreds of childless women with the mother heart have no chance of expressing their mother-love. Some of them, I think, must sympathise with the American woman who adopted eleven children; the deception of pretending that the children were really hers was hardly admirable, but the intense desire for motherhood which prompted it is one that every childless woman can understand.

In this land of ours a tremendous amount of mother-love is wasted. There are all those unmarried women with a deep love of children and all those wives whose hopes of motherhood have not been realised.

And the latter class is larger than many imagine, for hundreds of childless women condemned as too selfish to undertake the responsibilities of bearing children secretly long to be mothers. Not every wife whose dream of motherhood is unfulfilled can talk easily about it.

All these women who love children and want them—what are they to do? Is adoption the solution?

Adoption has no legal countenance in England as in most European countries and in many states of America. It is beset with difficulties.

Where the mother of the adopted child is still living it is not easy for the adopting mother to regard the baby as her own. I know some women who have adopted children and have bitterly regretted the step; adoption is hardly possible for the unmarried woman unless she is of assured position; and there are many men who have an instinctive dislike to the idea of their wives bringing alien children to their home.

It is futile, too, to suppose that this spirit of mother-love can be given to small relatives, to the children of one's friends or neighbors.

Actual mother-love is a jealous love. The moment a woman imagines that a friend is winning the love of her children she gets suspicious. In extreme cases gifts of toys, offers of hospitality, even romps in the nursery are construed into an active intention to alienate the children from their mother.

The childless wife frequently has more time than the busy mother; she is seldom too tired or too deeply occupied to amuse children. But the average mother is often disinclined to accept the friendship of such a woman for her children; if it is accepted, and grows, it is cut short.

Perhaps there is someone who can suggest some way of utilising the mother-spirit of the childless woman. It exists in tens of thousands of hearts; with all its failings it is probably the purest and highest form of love the world has ever known.

It is tragic, indeed, that it should be wasted.—Barbara Dane, in Daily Mail.

Sad Case of Bernard Blore.

The loyalest soldier of the war
Without a doubt was Bernard Blore,
Who moved within the inner ring
As A.D.C. to General Slynge.
He often spent his hours of ease
With D.A.A.'s and Q.M.G.'s,
Discussing freely the contents
Of confidential documents.
He knew who thought of tanks; he knew
Who really ruled at G.H.Q.,
And what was in that telegram
The Russians sent from Amsterdam;
What Quartermasters have for lunch
And who sent up that joke to Punch.
And yet, though generals by the score
Would earnestly confide in Blore
The details of each coming fray,
He never gave a thing away;
Not even when the war was done
Would he disclose to anyone
A single tit-bit from his store
Of secret military lore.
In vain relations asked his views,
In vain the Pressmen fought for news,
And publishers in vain would press
Young Blore for reminiscences.
At last in 1954
There came another nastier war;
But he was now too old to serve,
And also he had lost his nerve.
And, having nothing else to do,
He felt, at last, like me and you.
A wish to talk of bygone days,
A wish to boast of ancient ways.
But, when he offered to unfold
His long-kept secrets, friends were cold;
The publishers were keen no more;
The Pressmen had forgotten Blore.
It was too late. His very club
Received his stories with a snub.
His grandchildren alone were sent,
When naughty, as a punishment,
To hear from 2 p.m. to 4
How grandpa won the last great war.
Ceasing at length to talk at all,
He died; and at his funeral
A Premier's wife, with careless laugh,
Composed this simple epitaph:—
"The men who keeps things to himself
Is bound to end upon the shelf;
A dirty dog gives things away,
But he's the dog that has his day."—
Punch, with apologies to Mr. Belloc.

Problems of Cold Storage.

How much of the world's food supply is now kept in cold storage is difficult to say, but it must form a very large part of the total of perishable foodstuffs. It is not surprising, therefore, that the problem of getting the atmospheric conditions in cold storage premises exactly right for the long preservation of food has attracted the attention of the scientific mind. One phase of the problem is to secure the right degree of humidity or dampness in the atmosphere. For ordinary weather readings a wet and dry bulb thermometer is used, but in cold stores it is not reliable unless it is in constant draught. An instrument recently exhibited before the Royal Society of Great Britain has a wet and dry bulb mounted in a tube through which a tiny motor draws a current of air. In another dampness measurer, designed to give a reading at a distance, the dampness affects a hair, to which a pointer is hung. The principle is the same as in the old familiar "weather house" with doors through which a man or a woman emerged according to whether the air was dry or damp. In this instrument, however, the pointer moved over a drum which is really a resistance coil, and the degree of dampness is ascertained by measuring the electrical resistance at the point where the pointer is in contact with the coil.

COLLEGIATE SCHOOL HOLDS ANNUAL SPORTS

Dunn Makes Record Throwing Cricket Ball—Boys Were Keen and Course in Fine Condition

About two hundred visitors attended the Collegiate School sports held yesterday afternoon at the Jubilee Hospital Grounds, the affair having its usual happy atmosphere, and concluding with the time-honored salvo of cheers for Mr. D. Two More U-Boats Sunk

WASHINGTON, June 23.—Riddled by shells from American destroyers, two more former German submarines, the U-140 and the C U-48 have found a resting place in the Atlantic Ocean. They were sunk today sixty miles off Cape Charles lightship, near where yesterday naval aviators sunk the first submarine in opening the army and navy bombing tests.

FIFTY YEARS AGO TODAY

(From The British Colonist of June 22, 1871.)

New Steamer Arrives—The new steamer North Pacific, Captain D. Morrison, built at San Francisco for Starr Bros., arrived last night after a boisterous passage of seven days from San Francisco, bringing 130 passengers and 40 tons of freight for Victoria and Puget Sound. The officers and passengers speak highly of the performance of the North Pacific, and pronounce her one of the fastest steamers afloat. As the new vessel came alongside the Hudson's Bay Company's wharf her beautiful model excited general admiration, and the crowd received her with three hearty welcoming cheers. Her dimensions are: Length, 178 feet; beam, 32 feet. The engines have a working capacity of 300 horsepower. The stroke is ten feet, and the diameter of the cylinder 36 inches. The staterooms number 36, to which nearly a hundred passengers may find first-class accommodation.

Hon. J. W. Trutch—Rumor is again busy with this gentleman's name and affairs, and it is asserted now that he has been offered an appointment to look after the lands of the Hudson's Bay Company in the Red River Country and Rupert's Land at a salary of $10,000 per annum.

CAPACITY AUDIENCE GREETS "HELLO BILL"

Fourth Musical Comedy Produced by Mildred Page Players Will Run at Princess for Balance of Week

The fourth musical comedy produced by the Mildred Page Players was presented last night at the Princess Theatre, and was probably the best yet given by the popular local players. "Hello, Bill," met with a great reception from the audience which packed the Princess playhouse, and the musical numbers especially were accorded generous applause, several turns being recalled three times.

The story of the comedy is set in Canada during the time of the Great War. The plot of the playlet is very clear, and runs throughout the show. "Hello, Bill," is produced in two acts, and is under the direction of Mr. Byron Aldean. The leading parts are taken by Miss Mildred Page, who, with her clever recitation and singing specialties, again won her way into the hearts of her audience; Mr. James G. Coots, who, in the attire of a Scotsman, ably portrayed his part as a general of the Canadian Highlanders; and Mr. Arthur Elton, the real General, stoutly maintained his rights as being of sound mind, in spite of his usurper's declaration to the contrary.

"Hello, Bill," is a snappy comedy, and is breezy throughout. The soloists last night seemed to get better accustomed to their offerings, and the way in which the entire cast presented their parts was very commendable. The last three productions of the company have been very good, but last night's patrons were pronounced in their opinion that this week's offering is the best that the popular Mildred Page Players have yet presented to Victoria's theatre-going public.

Lively Music

Last night's choruses were exceptionally fine, and show much improvement over their last performance. The musical numbers were all encored, and some lively tunes were introduced which went over fine. The members of the cast had their lines down well, and their recitation was very steady and smooth. Miss Lily Dooley again scored a hit with her singing of "Toddles," and the dance which she gave, both of which were enthusiastically encored. Mr. Coots brought down the house with his rendering of "A Wee Bit of Scotch."

The audience was in a continual state of laughter during the entire show, so humorous did the playlet prove to be; in fact, there is not a dull moment in the whole show. The stage settings are very good, and the Scotch songs intermingled amongst the musical selections were greatly enjoyed. Members of the Masonic Order and their ladies attended last night's opening performance of "Hello, Bill."

The musical numbers were as follows: Opening chorus, ensemble; "When the Bonnie, Bonnie Heather Is Blooming," Mr. Jaxon and girls; "Love Me," Miss Page and girls; "Love Me," Mr. Coots; "Kentucky Blues," Miss Berkeley and girls; "Lazy Mississippi," Miss Page and girls; "A Wee Bit of Scotch," Mr. Coots; "There's Only One Pal, After All," Mr. Jaxon; "Toddles," Miss Lily Dooley; "Always," Mr. Coots, and "Mammy's Little Sunny Honey Boy," Miss Berkeley and girls.

DOMINION THEATRE To be threatened by a policeman with an automatic revolver in his hand and thereafter arrested for a gem robbery, is a trying experience for any woman, and especially so when she is innocent of wrongdoing as was Marjorie Bowen, a modiste's model, the heroine of Enid Bennett's latest Paramount picture, "Silk Hosiery," which will be shown at the Dominion Theatre this week. Miss Bennett has an unusually attractive role in this romantic picture, produced by Thomas H. Ince, with the happiest results. The story was written by Frank M. Dazey. Geoffrey Webb is leading man and heads a strong cast of players. Fred Niblo directed. Buster Keaton is also seen in his latest comedy, "The Haunted House."

ROYAL VICTORIA "Bob Hampton of Placer," heralded as the supreme motion picture achievement of Director Marshall Neilan, will be the special feature attraction at the Royal Victoria Theatre again today. An exceptional cast of players will be seen in this production, with James Kirkwood in the title role and Marjorie Daw in the feminine lead. Other prominent players are freckle-faced Wesley Barry, Pat O'Malley, Noah Beery, Frank Leigh, Dwight Crittenden, Tom Gallery, Priscilla Bonner, Chas. West, Bert Sprotte, Carrie Clark Ward, Vic Potel and Bud Post. "Bob Hampton of Placer" is adapted from the Randall Parrish story of the same name. It is released by Associated First National Pictures, Inc. As an added attraction this week, T. Kelway has been engaged to sing two well-known ballads, "Down Texas Way" and "Western Hand." A good comedy and weekly round out an excellent programme.

VARIETY THEATRE Doug and Mary Pickford have set a new style in ambassadorships. They are the sensation of London. When they enter the fashionable Ritz dining room, London society rises to see them; when they appear on the streets crowds surround them. At a garden party, Mary was so overwhelmed with greetings that Doug had to rescue her from her newly-found friends. Passing out of his hotel, Doug found a dense throng of people who would not depart until he had made a speech. It sounds like one of Doug's scenarios. It is that touch of nature which makes the whole world kin. Doug and Mary have revealed themselves as American propagandists of the kind we want. When Americans are received abroad the way Mr. and Mrs. Doug have been received in England, it wipes out many things that make misunderstandings. America wants to be understood abroad, and especially by the great English-speaking race. Ambassadors like Mr. and Mrs. Doug lead the way to new international fellowships. In complimenting Doug and Mary by lavish attentions, the English are complimenting the United States.—From Post, Hartford, Connecticut.

SOUTH AMERICAN LOVE STORY SHOWS ON COLUMBIA SCREEN

A romantic love story of South America is the offering of the Columbia Thursday, when Edith Roberts will be seen as the star of "The Fire Cat."

The story was written by Norman Dawn, the director who produced it for Universal, and is brilliant in dramatic color.

In theme "The Fire Cat" concerns a young girl who lives in the ruins of what was once a magnificent hacienda in the mountains of Peru. Her only surviving relative, a mother, is murdered, leaving her entirely alone in the world with vengeance as her only object in living.

How she disguises herself as a dancing girl and mingles with the flotsam and jetsam of the mining camp dance hall in an effort to lure the assassin of her mother by her beauty and then destroy him brings the story to its unparalleled climax.

Norman Dawn, the author and director, is himself of South American birth and has introduced into the story atmospheric touches which could not otherwise be obtained. His desire for absolute realism in depicting types was applied to the entire cast.

Beatriz Domingues, one of the principal characters, is a Castilian beauty and noted Spanish dancer; Olga D'Morjean is a famous Spanish emotional actress and admirably suited to the role of the mother, while one of the unusual character roles is played by William Eagle-Eye, a South American Indian.

Miss Roberts is supported by Wallace McDonald, Arthur Jasmine, Walter Long and many others in addition to the players named.

Deferred Dyspepsia

A very remarkable case of what is known as "deferred dyspepsia" occurred at the London Zoological Gardens last year, says The Scientific American. A fine specimen of the elephant tortoise was shipped to England, reaching its destination in October just as the chilly weather was beginning. On its journey the tortoise seemed to have regaled itself to a considerable extent on the straw in which it was packed. Almost as soon as it arrived the tortoise passed into a state of hibernation.

The following April the creature took a short walk round on a sunny day, but its activities were short-lived. Quite soon the tortoise became desperately ill with stomach trouble, and it was not long before it died. A post-mortem examination revealed the fact that the animal had died from acute indigestion started by the large amount of straw eaten on its journey to England. During the Winter sleep of the creature the disease seems to have been held in abeyance only to develop on fatal lines when the hibernation was at an end.—New York World.

A committee appointed by the Illuminating Engineering Society of England to inquire into eyestrain resulting from watching the movies, has just made its report, which is published in The British Medical Journal. The committee finds that the chief strain on the eyes comes from the pictures being shown too high up, so that the eyes of the spectators in the front rows have to be raised. It recommends that the height of a picture on the screen be such that the angle formed by lines from the centre of the top and the centre of the bottom to the eye of a spectator in the front row be not greater than 35 degrees.—Scientific American.

GAMBLING LUCK

A. E. Manning Foster, in The Daily Mail

Spiritualism is everywhere nowadays, and I have found it in a place where I should least expect to find it —the gambling rooms at Monte Carlo.

Congratulating a woman player on her wonderful luck at roulette, she replied: "It is not luck."

"You mean you have a system?" I inquired. "Certainly it seems very successful."

"No," she replied mysteriously, "it is not a system in the ordinary sense. It is something much better. I will tell you. It is my spirit-guides."

"You mean that the spirits tell you what to play?" I asked.

"Certainly," she said, in a tone which left no doubt as to her deep conviction.

"Then why do they sometimes tell you wrong?"

"Spirits are not infallible," she replied; "I thought everybody knew that."

"Then how——?" I began.

"I am sorry I told you," she interposed. "I thought you were an initiate. I see you are only a scoffer." She turned away scornfully.

Now whether spirits can and do interest themselves in the winning numbers at roulette I must leave to such authorities as Sir Oliver Lodge, Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, and the Rev. Vale Owen to determine. I am not a scoffer, merely an inquirer.

Certainly the idea makes no more strain on the credulity than the belief in mascots and charms which is widely prevalent among gamblers.

I used to think that people just pretended to believe in these things, that they toyed with them as pretty, fanciful ideas which added interest and color to life.

But not a bit of it. Men and women players here have as firm a faith in their talismans as the lady of my story has in her spirits.

Some of them are a little ashamed of their belief and do not display their mascots openly. They just finger them surreptitiously. But many make no bones about it and vaunt their profound convictions. They can always triumphantly defy anybody to prove a negative.

Men and women bring to the casino all sorts of talismans. Lucky pigs in gold, silver or bog-oak are very popular, and so are "touchwood" charms.

Some have their lucky stones or pieces of jewelry or wear special colors which they think bring them good fortune. The shops display numerous devices and amulets. Bracelets of elephant's skin with gold clasps are often seen, and some favor rats' tails or the skin of a venomous snake.

One man was in the habit of bringing to the rooms a small, live tortoise which he kept in his pocket and touched now and again.

Another brought a spider enclosed in a box painted inside half red and half black. He always played on the color which the spider lodged in after he had shaken the box.

To lose at play is to be lucky in love, and, conversely, no lover who has had a winning run at the tables should choose that day to put his fate to the test.

I heard of a woman who refused a man's offer because he proposed to her on an evening when she had had a big win at the Casino.

ART TREASURES OF EGYPTIANS

In a remarkable exhibition of ancient Egyptian art, arranged at the Burlington Fine Arts Club in London by the Egyptian Exploration Society, there can be read, says The Morning Post, the symbols which testify to the civilisation of Egypt from pre-historic and pre-dynastic periods, that is, before 3400 B.C., onward through the first and second Dynasties (3400-3110 B.C.) to the Alexander Ptolemaic eras, and the Roman, 30 B.C.-A.D. 400.

Studied from the artistic standpoint this collection should forever dissipate the erroneous idea that in the matter of conception Egyptian art remained fixed, immovable in the archaic stage. While admitting the perfection of Egyptian craftsmanship, one eloquent writer declared that for Egyptian art no advance was possible. It lacked the intellectual impulse which among all progressive races leads out of the archaic stages of development. Not the hand, but the mind, was at fault.

And this serious limitation, which bound not only the art but the life and religion of the ancient Egyptians, was attributed to the bondage of a strict routine, to the influence of environment—in short, to the tyranny of the Nile, which, wherever it flowed, atrophied all life, thought, and action. "The desert precluded all communication east and west, and, though the junction of the river with the sea might hold out an invitation to foreign enterprise, the invitation was neglected. The Egyptians were no mariners." Their happy valley became the natural confines of their thought; no whisper reached them from the outer world, no hint that existence was possible save on the bounty of the Nile.

Facts About Curves

Dealing with the curves in Greek architecture, the same scribe said: "To turn from the work of other races to Greek work is to find the sense of sight in a position of authority it has never before or since occupied." Recent investigation proves the falsity of this assertion and others equally erroneous. Seven centuries before the Parthenon was built the mystery of curves had been solved by the Egyptians. As to their isolation from the outer world, there is evidence that foreign influences were early at work in Egyptian art. The Egyptians themselves may not have gone down to the sea in ships, but, as Mr. P. E. Newbery says in an excellent introduction to the invaluable catalogue, the Syrian sailors certainly brought wood from the Lebanon region of Egypt, which was comparatively timberless, to build the palaces of the early kings. The similarity between some phases of the art of ancient Egypt and ancient Babylonia does not clearly warrant the belief that these countries were actually in communication with one another in the fourth millennium, B.C. "It is much more probable," argues Mr. Newbery, "that there was a common source from which both Babylonia and Egypt drew their inspiration," and Syria may have been that source.

Processes of Development

The objects on view illustrate in comprehensive fashion the instinct and aims, the realism and fantasy, peculiar to Egyptian genius, and its extraordinary development and significance. Twenty-five years ago nothing was known of Egyptian art previous to the beginning of the Pyramid Age. Research and discovery, however, now enable the student to trace its history back to the beginning of the Dynastic Period (3400-2980). But still hidden from him are the secrets of its origins and earliest development. The great difference between the art of Prehistoric Egypt and Dynastic art becomes evident by comparing the drawing of the figures on the Predynastic vases, with the 1st Dynasty ivory label for a pair of sandals, showing King Den and an Arab. None as yet can account for the wide difference between the childish representation of the earlier period and the spirit and craftsmanship of the later art. How did it come to pass? Future investigators may be able to explain the almost inexplicable change, the apparently sudden transition that bewilders.

There is also exhibited a vigorous bust of a king (c. 3400 B.C.), in coarse limestone, which is the oldest portrait in the world. It is as far removed in art as in time from the head of Amenemhet II., 1300 B.C., cut in obsidian with unrivalled craftsmanship. Character has never been more convincingly suggested. Still older (3500 B.C.) is the beautiful "Portrait bust of a woman" set on the chimney-piece. Other fine examples of Egyptian portraiture are found. Note should be made of the very modern-like fragment of a nude statuette and of the splendid gold figure of the god Amon, the delightful "Boy," the "Standing Figure of a Young Negress," and the charming "Wooden Figure." There is a superb series of blue glazed Faience chalices (c. 1400-2000), exquisitely carved panels of an ivory casket and a number of hieroglyphs in vitreous paste that are "unequalled in any museum in the world." There are many more rare, curious, and beautiful things, including a fragment of linen fabric, which is the only known piece woven in dyed threads.

FRANCE AND ROME AGAIN SHAKE HANDS

Toronto Mail and Empire

After an estrangement of sixteen years, France and the Vatican have re-established amicable relations. M. Charles C. A. Jonnart, a wealthy Frenchman and devout Catholic, who has been mentioned for the Presidency in times past, has been sent to Rome as an Ambassador, and Mgr. Bonaventura Cerretti, Archbishop of Corinth, has been sent to Paris. The negotiations which have led to this friendly interchange began, so far as the public knows, in July, 1918, upon almost the very day that Foch began his great counter-offensive which brought the war to an end, when M. Denys Cochin was sent to Rome to pave the way for a resumption of diplomatic relations. In May, 1920, on the occasion of the canonisation of Jeanne d'Arc, M. Cochin headed a delegation of distinguished Frenchmen who visited St. Peter's. Shortly afterward there was publicly outlined the attitude of the French Government, which proved satisfactory to the Vatican. The French position was stated as follows:

France's Terms.

1. The relations must have a normal and permanent character and be assured on the one hand by an Ambassador properly accredited from France and on the other by a Nuncio properly accredited from the Vatican.

2. France reaffirms her desire to continue her traditional policy of protection of the Catholics in the Orient.

3. France will expect the Vatican to use its influence in pacifying all revolt against the treaties which are the outcome of the Great War, so that international tranquillity may be made to prevail as quickly as possible.

4. The resumption of diplomatic relations does not imply on the part of France any change in the existing legislation which governs worship, schools, and religious associations. However, the Roman Curia is to restore France to the category of the most-favored nations in regard to the choice of Bishops.

5. A President of the French Republic after visiting the Quirinal may proceed from the French Embassy to visit the Vatican without prejudice to the latter.

Breach of the Concordat.

This last condition, which had caused embarrassment in the past, had already been granted by the Pope, and all heads of Roman Catholic countries are now permitted to visit the King of Italy. The breach between France and the Vatican was partly manufactured by politicians desiring power. The people of France became convinced that the Vatican was an enemy of the Republic and that its authority and influence were behind the Royalists. The fact that most of the Royalists were staunch Roman Catholics gave some color to the charge. Even though the majority of Frenchmen were then, as now, staunch Catholics, they were Frenchmen first, and the idea that the Republic was in danger was a terrifying one to them. Therefore, the Government, at the instigation of the Socialists, expelled the religious congregations and took from the priests privileges which they had enjoyed for centuries. It is to be presumed that France derived some benefit therefrom, since it has not shown since any desire to reconsider its action.

The Heroic Priests.

One of the steps which France took to rid herself of the influence of the Vatican proved to be the most powerful influence in bringing about the reconciliation. France made priests subject to the conscription laws. The war priests of France so changed public sentiment that the old link has been renewed. France's priests had to shoulder rifles and fight in the trenches, and their record was not inferior to that of other Frenchmen. More than that, there were priests who volunteered, and some of them became the heroes of the war. Innumerable are the stories the poilus tell of their priests. One of them stationed himself at a point from which several French soldiers had been sniped. A poilu saw him immediately after he had fired a shot and said:

"Monsieur l'Abbe has been praying that his shot might go straight!"

"No, my son," replied the priest, as he opened the breech of his rifle and blew through it. "What I do is more difficult. I pray for the repose of the Boche's soul I have just sent home."

It seemed to many in the course of the war that the neutral attitude of the Vatican would estrange it from the Roman Catholic countries among the allies, but since there have been many defences and explanations of the Pope's attitude and it appears to have satisfied at least the great majority of Roman Catholics. The work of the French priests, too, and the spiritual necessities of the country in those dark years inclined Frenchmen to yearn again to the Pope as their spiritual father. After the war material considerations appeared. It was recognized that the greatest influence in the world in Europe today against the spread of Bolshevism is the Roman Catholic Church. The powerful authority of the Pope is needed. It is expected that he will yet have a seat on the League of Nations. The French Government and the British Government in sending representatives to Rome have recognized the importance of the Roman Catholic Church in a manner that a few years ago would have been inconceivable.

NOT IN THE DICTIONARY

THERE are not enough adjectives in the dictionary to describe the excellence of this fully modern five-room bungalow just placed with us for sale. It is true California style in appearance and plan, but built solid from the footings upwards of concrete blocks. The rooms, which are spacious, contain many built-in features and fine woodwork. The location, which is absolutely one of the best in Oak Bay, combines accessibility to cars, beach, schools, etc., with the utmost privacy. The house is so situated that it cannot be hemmed in by others.

If you have the ability to appreciate beauty of exterior appearance, excellence of plan, class of construction and state of repair, charm of garden and surroundings, see us, or allow our Mr. H. D. Patterson to come and see you, and we will arrange a private appointment to view.

The price of $4,500 will not perhaps attract the bargain hunter, but this place cannot be duplicated for twice the money. Let us prove this to you.

Blown to Pieces

QUEBEC, June 22.—A man named Fortin, of St. Germaine, Drummond County, while crossing the railway track at that place last night with a cartload of dynamite, was struck by the Ocean Limited from Montreal. An explosion resulted, blowing the man, beast and vehicle, to pieces.

BLUNDERING FILMS
J. K. D. in Daily Mail

The pages of "Burke" have an irresistible attraction for the United States film producer, and many fantastic romances of the Peerage has he woven from that bulky volume. The foolish blunders, easily discernible by the educated in Great Britain, are notoriously helping to reduce the attendance at the "movies." They are getting a bad name for the whole of this form of entertainment.

A few nights ago I came across a very bad sample of producer's work from New York in "A Virtuous Vamp," starring Miss Constance Talmadge. The film had all the makings of an excellent American comedy without the too familiar "thrills," but the evident ignorance of the British Peerage it displayed made the whole story lose its "punch."

The opening scene was laid in San Francisco during the earthquake and great fire of 1906, and the heroine was presented to us as the daughter of a scion of the noble English family of "Armitage of Warwickshire," the head of the house being Earl of Armitage. Like the chorus of a Greek play, there ran as a refrain throughout the film, chanted in a minor key by mother, daughter, and son, "We are the Armitages of Warwickshire."

The father, "gone West" by that time, had evidently been a very younger son, having no rank, but—thanks to the producer—the daughter (very charmingly played, undoubtedly) was called the "Honorable" Gwendolyn Diana Beaufort Something-else Armitage. He could have her with as much reason "Lady" Gwen, which would have been much more entrancing.

Her younger brother remained plain American "Eddie" throughout the film, and her mother was "Mrs. Armitage." Again thanks to the producer, they were not on the same aristocratic level as the "Hon." Gwen.

A framed copy of the family crest was much in evidence, having been rescued from the great fire by "Eddie" (evidently being considered by him their most sacred possession), for future use as an identification card possibly.

In a later scene "Burke" was produced, the pages feverishly turned by the two snobbish sisters of the "commoner" hero, and somewhere about the letter "M" we had a "close-up" of some particulars of the Armitage peerage.

It was all nicely faked. Again we saw the familiar crest (apparently the family did not possess a coat-of-arms). Our attention was drawn to the name of the "Honorable" Gwendolyn, duly black-losenged, indicating that she was in direct succession to the family honors, to the exclusion of her brother—an utter impossibility.

The end of it all came rather abruptly. One day Society in New York was electrified by the announcement that the beautiful "Hon." Gwendolyn (etc.) Armitage had been quietly married to an American "commoner" and that the honeymoon was spent at Armitage Castle, the ancestral home of the "Armitages of Warwickshire."

How or why she got there the film story wisely does not tell us. There must have been many sudden deaths in the noble family, unless they all went on a yachting tour and the boat foundered, leaving none to tell the tale!

And the pity is that it would have made a much better story without any silly Peerage or British castle. These foolish films cause the British public to distrust all films.

Recoveries Made by Stock Prices in Early Period Are Wiped Out by Renewed Liquidation at Close

NEW YORK, June 22.—Stocks made further recoveries in the early and intermediate periods of today's active dealings, but gains were largely or wholly dissipated in the fresh liquidation of the final hours. The features of the reaction included Bethlehem Steel, the coppers, junior motors and sugars. Some of these issues declined 1 to 3 points to new low records. Among the heaviest specialties were Sears-Roebuck, which lost 4¾ points, and Chicago Pneumatic Tool, the latter dropping 6 points on news of the reduced dividend, but rallying slightly later.

Mexican Petroleum maintained its reputation as the most volatile of all speculative favorites. The stock fluctuated in a radius of 7 points, its extreme advance of 6¾ points ending with a net gain of a fraction.

United States Steel was the most active issue, rising 1 points above its low record of the previous day, but falling away with the general list at the heavy close. Other steels, as well as motors and the various specialties, comprising the tobacco, leather and food divisions, manifested similar unstable tendencies.

Sales were 875,000 shares.

The money market and foreign exchange played no part in the day's movements. Call money and time funds were unchanged, and the leading exchanges were only lightly dealt in.

Bonds followed the course of the stock market. Liberty issues were irregular, and domestic rails inclined to additional firmness. Mixed gains and losses were registered by international issues.

Total sales, $13,870,000.

NUGGET MINE IS SHORT OF MINERS

Experienced Men Cannot Be Procured for Property Being Worked in Interior—Mill Handling 100 Tons Daily

Milling 2,100 tons of ore in May, the Nugget gold mine on Sheep Creek is now running through 100 tons a day in its mill, with 97 per cent recoveries, and the one handicap at present is that the shortage of experienced miners does not permit the stoping to keep pace with the mill, which is compelled to draw to some extent on the 4,000-ton reserve broken down in the stopes, states The Nelson Daily News.

"We have a crew of 35 men underground," said Superintendent Harold Lakes, at the Hume, "but we want to have 50. Only experienced miners are any good to us. There is no difficulty about getting muckers, or any other class of ordinary labor, but the experienced miners, or those of them who were out of employment, appear to have left the country. The Government employment bureau at Vancouver can't help us, though it is trying to get us men. This is a peculiar situation at a time when there is supposed to be a great surplus of labor, both skilled and unskilled, in the country."

Mill Drawing on Reserves

Superintendent Lakes states that since the mine reopened on April 23 the mill has been tuned up, and is now running with great efficiency. Improvements have been made at the bunk house to take care of the extra men when there is a larger crew, and the trackage in the mine has been perfected for the hauling of 100 tons of ore from the stopes each day. These 100 tons are brought out in 160 cars, the ore being very light, hauled by three mule trains.

Working conditions in the Nugget have greatly improved, Mr. Lakes states, since one year ago, and the mine is not the wet mine it was at that time. The water has been turned out of the raises, so that the manways are almost dry, and the stopes seem to have drained. Nevertheless, the Nugget Gold Mines, Ltd., continues to pay 50 cents over the Slocan scale, both in the mine and at the mill, where there is a crew of twelve.

Stope in Both Mines

In the Nugget ground stoping is being carried on on the main Nugget vein, which was caught at 650 feet new depth a year or more ago, by the long crosscut from the interior of the motherlode. For a length of about 150 feet, with both ends of the stope in ore, the ore shoot has been stoped out for a height of about 200 feet.

Back in the motherlode ore bodies were recently located which the motherlode operators had overlooked, developing from the raise which had some ore. Several thousand tons of ore, it is calculated, will be taken out from these shoots. This is now being mined.

At present Mr. Lakes is working 14 drills in the Nugget stope, seven a shift, and four in the motherlode, in the one shift. When the mine crew is brought up to 50 men, he plans using eight drills in the motherlode, or four a shift. It is planned to keep the mine operating on that basis.

Allister Forbes, of Victoria, is manager of the Nugget Gold Mines, Ltd., R. S. Lennie, of Vancouver, formerly of Nelson, being one of the principal shareholders.

WINNIPEG GRAIN MARKET

WINNIPEG, June 22.—Wheat prices here today, working on bullish news reports, reached higher levels, the July showing an advance of over 6 cents at the peak from the previous close, and October a gain of 3½ cents. There was some reaction later, but prices were generally steady at higher levels. July reached $1.70⅝ on the high and October $1.36⅝. The close was ⅛ to ⅜ cent higher. The coarse grain future markets were dull. Oats closed ⅛ cent lower to ¼ cent higher; barley unchanged; flax ⅜ to ½ cent higher; and rye 4½ cents higher.

With a more urgent demand for cash wheat, premiums showed an advance of 1 cent, being 13, 10 and 8 cents over the July price for the three top grades. The offerings continue light, and the advance failed to bring out any farmers' wheat that is being held for higher prices. The demand existing is to fill old contracts. Cash coarse grains were quiet today.

Slight Recovery in the Stock Market

The bond market usually responds to any movement in the stock market. Considerable investment by institutions is expected in July. This will tend to stiffen Victory Bond prices. We consider the present a good time to purchase.

The Number

Every tire has embossed on the side a serial number. It is very important that the car owner should have a record of this number in each case and such record should be made when the tire is bought. Not only is it desirable to have this record for adjustments with the company, but in case of theft possession of the serial record is often a valuable aid to the police. It is a fine habit to form, this recording the numbers of all tires bought.
